For its third iteration, residency-based, nomadic festival Phonetics teams up with Lisbon's crew Filho Único, notorious for their affiliation with Príncipe Discos and developing innovative representation strategies in Euroland for international luminaries such as Ariel Pink, James Ferraro, Linn da Quebrada or Hype Williams.

As part of the 2022 French-Portuguese cultural season program, this year's Phonetics edition will see Portuguese and French artists coming together in a two-week residency at Mono Lisboa from August 28th to September 8th.

A collaborative curation will see the creation of four commissioned performances and original b2b formation, all presented in unconventional venues of the city of Lisbon.

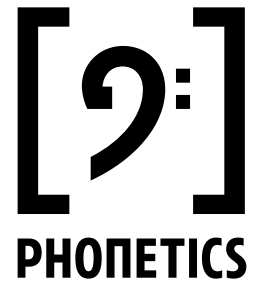

During the residency at Mono Lisboa, artists NSDOS (FR), Lucas Gutierrez (AR), DJ Lycox (PT), Lula Pena (PT), Riccardo La Foresta (IT), Photonz (PT), Keumel (FR), Epsilove (FR), Berangère Maximin (FR), Carincur (PT), Herlander (PT), Clothilde (PT), and Terrine (FR) will gather to develop the performances which will be presented during the festival from September 8th to September 11th in various venues in Lisbon.

Additionally, Phonetics resident, ethnomusicologist, PhD candidate and field-recording artist Romain Mascagni (aka Territoires) will collaborate with 12 students from Saint-Denis (Phonetics' hometown). After a series of workshops revolving around sound art, they will fly to Lisbon in order to record and re-orchestrate a sound piece focused on Lisbon's Tagus River. The project received support from the Erasmus+ program.

About Phonetics

Activated by Grand Angle (FR)

Sound results from a vibratory phenomenon that encompasses and connects us. It propagates everywhere and frees itself from geographical borders to convey shared sensations, emotions, and urgencies. Sound is a phonetic language understandable by all.

This definition is what motivates the spirit of Phonetics. More than a name, it is an apprehension of the world through sound by creating connections between artists, the public, and the territory they explore together during a residency program by making the plurality of languages heard.

Launched in 2019 with its first edition in Algiers (DZ), Phonetics was funded in 2018 by Grand Angle's Wassyl Abdoun-Tamzali in Paris' Saint-Denis as a residency-based, collaborative, nomadic festival focused on sound experimentation and cross-genres music exploration.

Previous edition: Phonetics 2021 - Saint-Denis (FR)
