

transformative COACHING

If you're not changing, you're not growing.

Linda believes coaching is about change — deciding what you want to do differently, and working to make it happen... to become a slightly better version of yourself.

As your partner, Linda will...

- offer questions to spark your curiosity about yourself, and to see your world from different perspectives.
- invite you to explore alternate ways of thinking, feeling, and being.
- support you in charting a path to reach your goals.
- aid you in staying focused on what you determine you want to achieve.
- Above all else, Linda will be your partner in making the changes that matter most to you.

Linda Hendrickson

Linda (she/her), draws on her broad experience in leadership roles in nonprofit, public, and volunteer organizations to support the work her clients want to do. She enjoys guiding leaders and emerging leaders through a flexible, results-oriented process tailored to what they want to achieve to be more focused, self-aware, and successful.
