In the pursuit of a joyful life, many seek the perfect balance of work, play, family and friends. Cristina Hoyos and Melanie Weber have managed to discover it. Creative and business partners in the running of their firm, 10.Studio, the pair also happens to be the best of friends. But what is their secret to having it all? “We never stop,” Hoyos says. “As women, the ability to multitask is one that we thrive on. It is something that has allowed us to excel as professionals, wives, mothers, athletes ... yes, we run marathons!”

When they aren’t on the track, they’re creating the interior places of their clients’ dreams. And they too, tend to join the friendship club. “The best part is seeing the awe in our clients’ faces when the project is finished,” Weber says. “Also, the fact that most of our clients become friends is very rewarding to us. They trust us blindly!”

• Mentors:

Our mothers. In very similar ways, they’ve showed us the importance of doing what we love, working hard, and being independent women and dedicated mothers.

• Goals:

We would like 10.Studio to be recognized internationally. Traveling is our passion, so we would love to design projects in new places—a barn-style house in Aspen, a chic contemporary in an island location, a quaint boutique hotel in Latin America.

• Visions:

We believe in sustainability and hope to see more players in our industry lead with this mindset. We try to find timeless pieces you’d only need to reupholster every 20 years.
