Here's How We Streamline Customs Brokerage Support Services for You

We start by accessing the necessary documents from your Document Management System (DMS). After that, we carefully separate and index them into our system. It enables easy retrieval and reference throughout the customs clearance process. Shipments are then categorized into High-Value Shipments (HVS) and Low-Value Shipments (LVS), enabling a focused approach to handle each category precisely. Our experienced customs executives access and process the documents using a secure connection to remote data servers. They meticulously check CADEX and valuation instructions and cross-reference information for accuracy. Factors such as warranty, repair, DPP, origin shipment date, and dollar value are thoroughly reviewed to ensure compliance and proper declaration.

As part of our commitment to quality, a dedicated QA team diligently analyzes the output for any errors or inconsistencies. Digitized information is then meticulously verified against the original documents to maintain data integrity and provide reliable and precise customs documentation. After that, we promptly transmit the verified data to customs (CBSA- Canada Border Services Agency), ensuring that all necessary information reaches the authorities promptly. Whether you're importing or exporting goods, we provide comprehensive support throughout customs clearance.
