About us

There are two types of universities in Dutch higher education: universities of applied sciences and traditional research universities. As a university of applied sciences, The Hague University of Applied Sciences (THUAS) focuses on professional training and career preparation.

THUAS offers internationally focused degrees which will prepare you for your future career. We have strong links with global organisations, which help design our curricula and offer guest lecturers. You will develop as an independent thinker and world citizen on our cosmopolitan campus made up of staff and students from 146 nationalities.

When you graduate from THUAS you'll have a head start in industry, an international outlook and names of well-known organisations on your CV. The city's international vibe and central location in Europe attracts multinational organisations, including Shell, Siemens and KPN. THUAS has close links with many of the 300 international businesses in The Hague.

What we offer

THUAS runs ten bachelor degree programmes and three masters degree programmes taught entirely in English. The programmes cover five broad 'fields of interest' geared towards the students' chosen career. These include Business, Finance & Marketing; IT & Design; Management & Organisation; Public Management, Law & Safety and Technology, Innovation & Society. You can improve your English language and study skills to meet the entrance requirements for the international classroom on the English Academic Preparation programme beforehand.

International students can also get a taste for THUAS life and 'dip in' for a semester or two as an international exchange student. The programmes which welcome exchange students cover seven broad fields that will prepare you for your chosen career path. These include Business, Finance & Marketing; Health, Nutrition & Sports; IT & Design; Management & Organisation; Public Management, Law & Safety; Social Work & Education and Technology, Innovation & Society.

Have you already completed at least your first year of a bachelor programme and are looking for a meaningful way to spend your summer? The Hague Summer School could be the next step in your career. The Hague Summer School is a cutting edge two or four week modular course which looks at solving global issues through connecting the public and private sectors.

THE HAGUE SUMMER SCHOOL

2 or 4 week programme: looking at solving the world's 'big' issues like poverty, pollution, environmental and economic crises through connecting the public and private sectors.

ENGLISH ACADEMIC PREPARATION PROGRAMME

You can improve your English language and study skills to meet the entrance requirements for the international classroom on the English Academic Preparation programme beforehand.

General entry requirements

Students require the equivalent of a Dutch system HAVO or VWO diploma to apply for a bachelor programme. The assessment of the eligibility of our prospective students holding a non-Dutch diploma are based on the diploma recognitions of the Nuffic (www.nuffic.nl).

EU/EEA candidates who do not have a relevant international qualification can still qualify for our four years bachelors programmes by taking the 21+ Admission Test (www.thehagueuniversity.nl/21plus). To be eligible you must be at least 21 years old on 1 September 2016, be a citizen of a EU/EEA country or Switzerland or already own a valid residence permit for the Netherlands.

Entry requirements for master programmes vary according to the course, but applicants must be aged 22 or older and require a minimum of relevant work experience..

The Hague Summer School is open to anyone who has completed a first year bachelors degree or already has a bachelors degree. You should have a good working knowledge of the English language (level B2 or higher) and last but not least: your motivation is an important part of the selection procedure.

 More information on study programmes and the application process can be found at www.thehagueuniversity.nl/application

Tuition fees and scholarships

EU/EEA and non-EU/EEA students are expected to pay tuition fees for bachelors and masters programmes, but there are many loans, grants and scholarships available to help you finance your studies.

Check if any scholarships are available in your home country. Your local Dutch embassy and present college or university should be able to help. It's also worth checking to see if you are eligible for THUAS's World Citizen Talent Scholarship or Holland Scholarship.

EU/EEA bachelors students will pay € 1,951* per year and most non-EU/EEA bachelors students will pay € 7,900*. Tuition fees vary between € 15,200 and € 17,500 for a masters. The Hague Summer School offers a one-off fee which covers all of your main costs including tuition, accommodation, lunches and coffee breaks on class days, study materials and in-programme cultural visits and social activities. The 4-week course costs € 2,998. The 2-week course costs € 1,499. The English Language Preparatory School programme costs € 3,950 for the half-year and € 7,890 for the full year course.

Find out about scholarships and tuition fees at www.thehagueuniversity.nl/finances

*Please visit our website thehagueuniversity.nl/finances to check the tuition fees. New tuition fees are set annually. The tuition fees for 2016-2017 were not set when this guide went to print.
