

Hope: Is There Any Hope for the Future?

George Frederic Watts depicts hope as a melancholy, blind woman perched on a dark world, listening intently to the last remaining string of 'hope' on her lyre. In our Guest Sunday, through an interview, talk, music, and a live Q & A, we will explore whether this accurately portrays hope or whether the Christian tradition gives us something more. Please join us!

Sunday, October 15, at 10 a.m. and 5 p.m.

The Salvation Army Auditorium (120 W. 14th St.)

REDEEMER
DOWNTOWN
redeemerdt.com

Race: How Can We Work Towards a More Racially Just Society?

The desire for greater racial justice is widely articulated, but there is great division over what racial justice actually looks like and perhaps even more confusion over how it can be achieved. In our Guest Sunday, through an interview, talk, music, and a live Q & A, we will explore these vital themes and consider how the gospel of Jesus Christ connects with them.

Sunday, October 22, at 10 a.m. only

The Salvation Army Auditorium (120 W. 14th St.)