After two years of touring with "The Liberace Show," Eric Hamelin, quickly becoming one of the most talked about pianists in the country, will strike out on his own concert tour.

The poised and polished 15 year old Liberace protégé has an astonishing repertoire, and like Liberace, an affinity for all kinds of music styles. Hamelin has his own flair for interpreting melodies while showcasing a keyboard technique mature beyond his years.

Hamelin has proven himself a real performer and a "real pro." In addition to the national exposure afforded him by "The Liberace Show" he has also performed on "The Merv Griffin Show" and "The Phil Donahue Show," and has the distinction of being the youngest performer ever to receive headline billing at the Radio City Music Hall.

"Musically, the most satisfying moment came, not from Liberace, but from his 14 year old protégé, Eric Hamelin." — The New York Times

"Hamelin's flashy Bravura melange concludes with closing notes of the Grieg Piano Concerto, sparking a standing ovation." — Variety

"He's [Hamelin] got unlimited potential in show business, he'll be a huge success and a big star, as big as he wants to be. He's a show-stopper and ninety-nine percent of the time he gets a standing ovation." — Liberace
