

Background

Azibo is an integrated financial and property management platform for thousands of real estate investors and landlords.

Azibo helps property owners manage tens of thousands of rental units across the U.S. including hundreds of millions of dollars in rental transactions annually. It is the simplest way to manage rental properties and their finances, with solutions for rent collection, tenant applications and screening, banking, accounting, and insurance — while also providing an excellent tenant experience embedded into one convenient place.

Today, Azibo helps property owners manage tens of thousands of rental units across the U.S. which includes hundreds of millions of rent payments, annually.

Mission

We envision a world where anyone can achieve financial flexibility through rental property ownership. We use technology to simplify and enhance our users' experience of managing and growing their real estate investments.

Unlike other property management software available today, Azibo is the only platform that integrates both financial services and accounting solutions specifically designed for real estate investors. While most landlords and real estate investors use fragmented tools to run their business — including QuickBooks or Excel spreadsheets for accounting and taxes; separate solutions for accepting rental applications and screening tenants; and then collecting rent via cash, Venmo, or direct deposits with their preferred bank — Azibo real estate investors are doing all of that in one place. Azibo also currently offers its core solutions for free, helping real estate investors save money and improve their profit margins.
