As a former corporate CIO and executive, creative strategist, and digital transformation expert, I love to share my experiences, outlook, and passion for change.

OF THE FUTURE?

Growing up between cultures, from Europe, Asia, to USA, gave me a unique perspective early on. Embracing fundamental transformation – a story of personal re-invention, life-long curiosity, and a professional business career.

As an experienced strategist, digital pioneer, and IT executive, I provide a passionate and engaging speaking format, designed to challenge my audience – from cultural transformation, talent development, to innovation, technologies, new business and product strategies. And the fabric of economic disruption and cross-industry transformation.

Technology hype-cycles come and go. It's about people making things work. As the economy is in an ongoing transformation process, a shift is needed in our culture, mindset, platforms, services, and customer experiences.

We need more entrepreneurs, risk-takers, founders, rebels – the ones who take the challenge to transfer ideas into products, purpose into impact, business into jobs.

So, let's talk about purpose-driven, sustainable, and impact-oriented business. Let's talk about the future!

Damiano Marabelli

CIO Central and Southern Europe, The Coca-Cola Company

"Pascal had us wrapped around his finger from minute 1. [...] The talk covered topics from quantum computing to robots and the metaverse to almost solving the population problem. I am a molecular biologist by training, and I did not have a single addition to add to Pascal's presentation of bleeding edge biotech. There aren't many public speakers that are able to cover such a broad range of expertise with such factual accuracy.

It was a blast."

Elmar Hackmann
