Juror

AMANDA ROY

Don Smith

Amanda Roy is an artist and arts administrator focused on advancing the capacity and social impact of the arts. As the Director of Equitable Arts Advancement at the Greater Hartford Arts Council, Amanda is committed to cultivating partnerships, advocating for artists and ensuring equity in the arts in the capital region. She is part of the Hartford Business Journal's 40 Under Forty Class of 2019 and Connecticut Magazine's 40 Under 40 Class of 2020.

As an artist, Amanda's artistic disciplines include crafting inks from foraged materials, painting, embroidery, illustration, as well as playing the drums. Her art explores the intersection between nature, meditation and nostalgia-infused soundscapes.

SALES

All works are for sale unless noted "NFS" (Not For Sale). No POR (Price on Request) are accepted. A 30% commission is taken on all sales to support the event and benefit the Library. You may offer prints of original paintings entered in the show for sale. Size, type of print, and price must be added to entry card.
