

Continue

Bonnie blue 1000 men leak

Bonnie Blue's controversial OnlyFans video featuring her having sex with over 1,057 men has been banned by the adult subscription-based site. The 25-year-old content creator shared the explicit footage earlier this month, which did not adhere to OnlyFans' policies. Bonnie faced intense backlash for her various challenges, including sleeping with just over 1,000 men in one day. She explained that the men she slept with were tested for "every STI" before participating. The video was removed from OnlyFans due to the site's policy of verifying the age, identity, and consent of all parties featured in explicit content. In a statement, OnlyFans said: "To keep our community safe, OnlyFans also verifies the age, identity, and consent of all parties featured in explicit content on OnlyFans." They stated that they don't allow a large number of non-OnlyFans creators to be featured on a person's account, even where release forms have been provided. Despite the ban, Bonnie has spoken about the physical toll her record-breaking stunt took on her body. She revealed that she suffered painful bruises and bite marks as a result of the challenge. In a YouTube video, Bonnie showed off the marks on her legs and discussed how the experience left her feeling sore but not in need of painkillers. Bonnie's reps have been contacted for comment. OnlyFans removed a raunchy video due to policy violations, stating that it doesn't allow large numbers of non-OnlyFans creators on an account, even with release forms provided. The controversial clip showed Bonnie Blue, who claims to have slept with over 1,000 men in 24 hours, engaging in a sex party at a £15 million mansion owned by convicted fraudster 'Fast Eddie' Davenport. The event prompted concerns about the escalation of extreme content online, as creators may go to great lengths to boost earnings and subscribers. Jobless security guard Ali Walker, who took the footage and posted it on social media, described the experience as "surreal" and said he was initially hesitant due to the sheer number of men involved. Bonnie Blue, a controversial OnlyFans star, has been criticized for claiming to have set a new world record for having sex with the most men in one day. The 25-year-old recruit-turned-cam girl and sex worker claims to have slept with 1,057 men in 12 hours, which would be her most outrageous claim yet. This assertion might be her most recent attempt to garner attention, following previous controversy surrounding her bragging about sleeping with hundreds of "barely legal" 18-year-olds on her OnlyFans account. Given article text here Dr. Datta warns that Blue's world record-setting stamina is unrealistic and poses significant health risks, including physical trauma, vaginal/anal irritation, urinary tract infections, STIs, unplanned pregnancy, emotional/psychological consequences, and social stigma. She advises women to consider the potential consequences of such an endeavor and prioritize their well-being. According to a report, adult entertainment performer Bonnie Blue claimed to have slept with over 1,000 people in just 12 hours, aiming to break a record held by someone named Sparks. Her representative stated that the event would be documented and shared on her OnlyFans account, where she reportedly earns around £600,000 per month. A survey found that the median number of sexual partners for Britons is four, with women reporting an average of three and men claiming five. However, Blue has faced backlash on social media for her comments about sleeping with 18-year-olds and suggesting men should cheat on their wives. She defended herself in a podcast appearance, stating she's not a predator and that the young adults are making their own decisions. Her representative said video proof of the event would be shared online. In another podcast, Blue discussed finding her niche of sleeping with university students, saying it made her rich. She also claimed to have enjoyed taking virginities from young men at her free sex events. Her comments sparked criticism, with some arguing that glorifying such behavior is not healthy and others suggesting that if a male said the same thing, it would be perceived differently. Blue has previously defended herself against critics, stating she's not a predator and that 18-year-olds are considered adults who can make their own decisions. However, her plans to offer free sex to teenage school leavers in Australia were cancelled due to visa issues. Bonnie Blue's sex marathon on OnlyFans sparked criticism and debate about her content and personal life. Before becoming one of the platform's top creators, she was married to her childhood sweetheart, Oliver Davidson, who claims she takes precautions to ensure her partners are over 18. Bonnie has defended herself against criticism, stating that her content is educational for those involved and that she doesn't feel guilty about sleeping with married men. She believes they deserve to enjoy sex if their wives aren't interested in intimacy. Bonnie's OnlyFans record-breaking sex marathon, where she slept with 1,057 men in 12 hours, sparked a heated debate about the safety of her content and her personal life. Bonnie is thanking everyone who has supported her in reaching this milestone. The OnlyFans star recently broke the record for the most sex had in a short timeframe. She shared her experience in a video filmed a day after the event, which took place in a central London mansion. In the footage, Bonnie can be seen welcoming men wearing balaclavas into a large room where she was waiting for them. The floor of the room is covered with discarded condoms. One excerpt shows a man blowing up a condom as he prepares to have sex with her. Bonnie revealed that she had sex with 1,057 men in just a short period. She defended her actions, stating that everyone involved had a good time and was laughing and enjoying themselves. However, she acknowledged that others may view it differently and that morality is subjective. The event took ten days to organize, and Bonnie's main concern was ensuring enough men would attend. She stated that her focus during the 12-hour sex session was on providing pleasure for her fans, rather than setting a record or focusing on numbers. Bonnie showed off bruises on her legs and neck, which she received from the men who slept with her. She said she told them it was okay to leave marks on her skin, adding that the experience was not about being hurt but about enjoying herself and providing pleasure for others. Everyone was really close to me all the time, which I loved, but after four hours without seeing any light because everyone was on top of me, I needed it to be like staggered out. She claims that she then had sex with groups of five and then one-on-ones, and the whole event took ten days to organize, her biggest concern being whether there would be enough men to participate. She revealed that while having sex for 12 hours, her focus was not on setting a record but on providing pleasure to her fans. During the marathon sex stunt, she never had a break longer than three or four minutes and only took four breaks in total. Bonnie said that every time she went upstairs, it was like seeing everyone curled up on the stairs, so she wanted to be quick so she could get back downstairs. She loved it. Bonnie Blue's sex party event was quite a spectacle with multiple men engaging in various intimate activities with her. The attendees even had fun with condoms, playing and tossing them around, which can be seen on video footage from the event. In an interview, Bonnie shared that she gave explicit permission for the men to leave their marks on her body, stating it turned her on. The room where the party took place was littered with discarded condoms, and one memorable clip shows a man blowing up a condom. The event also included a young 19-year-old who had signed the consent form, much to his mother's dismay when she arrived to take him home. Bonnie welcomed everyone, regardless of age or signing consent forms. An earlier article mistakenly identified the location of the party, and the correct address is now noted as 32 Portland Place.