Asked by Flofloflflaflo on October 9, 2024 I'm not good at English View (2) Answers Asked by rabiehassan on August 17, 2017 Recently, I've been noticing many Riven players (along with a few Tryndameres and Lee Sins) starting with 9 health pots and a red elixir. This strategy seems to be effective for them, so I began wondering which other champions would benefit from this approach. Viewing the data, Garen Mid has a 51.1% win rate with a 0.5% pick rate in Emerald + and is currently ranked B tier. Based on our analysis of 2,826 matches in patch 15.8, the best build for Garen involves Stridebreaker, Berserker's Greaves, Phantom Dancer, Mortal Reminder, and Dead Man's Plate. For Garen Mid, most picked runes include Conqueror, Triumph, Legend: Haste, and Last Stand for primary tree, as well as Axiom Arcanist and Celerity for secondary tree. Builds can be imported directly into your game client, with the most popular build having a 57.8% win rate based on 773 matches. When playing Garen Mid, it's essential to master certain combos and strategies. If you've been bullied by an enemy champion, hold back until your passive kicks in to regain health. Use your W as a tool to avoid CC or burst when trading, and cancel your E early if necessary. The most popular Garen Mid build requires Flash and Ignite as summoner spells, Conqueror as the keystone, and specific runes for primary and secondary tree. For rune shards, use Adaptive Force in offense, flex, and defense accordingly. When building items, start with Stridebreaker, followed by Berserker's Greaves and Phantom Dancer. Finish with Mortal Reminder, Dead Man's Plate, and Infinity Edge. Stick to the skill order E - Q - W for optimal performance. Carefully analyze your opponents, teammates, game situation, and matchup to craft the optimal Garen build. For instance, consider taking Armor or Magic Resist rune shards depending on the champion you're facing. Additionally, check out Garen's runes page for a detailed breakdown. Join fellow Garen mains to discuss your favorite champion! Patch 15.8 highlights the most favorable Mid matchups for Garen. Consider picking Garen into these matches to increase your chances of winning a game. On the other hand, avoid playing Garen in unfavorable Mid matchups. These champions are considered as Garen counters in the current patch, decreasing your chances of winning a game. Keep in mind that individual skill, team composition, and opponent skill also play crucial roles. Skill Priority, EQW, Skill Path, Most popular ability leveling order, and Starting Items can help you optimize your gameplay. In terms of matchups, Aatrox's zoning with his Q makes farming challenging from level 1. Look to minimize damage while farming and capitalize on all-in opportunities when his Q and E are on cooldown. Akali's stealth and dashes make her a frustrating opponent; use E only when she uses her second E activation. Camille is an extreme permaban due to her access to stealth and four dashes, making it difficult to engage in combat. Against Chogath, keep moving to avoid his Q, Rupture, and develop an early lead before he outscaling you. Darius isn't as daunting a matchup as some make it seem; focus on staying even in experience and not dying solo. Remember that your ultimate at level 6 can put equal kill pressure on Darius. Mundo is an easy matchup due to his lack of kill pressure in lane, making it challenging for him to punish you. Diving Fiora Fiora's W, riposte, makes her hard to deal with, making the laning phase all about playing around this ability. You need to bait her parry out with Q and be ready to ult her if she's not silenced or has used riposte recently. Gnar vs Garen Gnar's ability to kite Garen using his W and E makes this matchup annoying. Be careful of his Q slow and the possibility of him transforming into mega. Gwen vs Minor Gwen is just annoying because she can heal a lot from her abilities if you don't have executioners or ignite. However, assuming you have conqueror and aren't behind, you should win an all-in 1v1 against Gwen. Heimerdinger vs Minor The best way to lane against Heimerdinger is not to engage at all. Just let the wave push into tower and farm, then look to roam mid or help your jungler invade topside. Even this matchup revolves around dodging Illaoi's E, which is her main trading tool. Illaoi vs Minor Build grievous wounds early to deal with Illaoi's healing from her tentacle slams. However, if you don't know how Irelia functions, it can be tough. Remember that Irelia's passive stacks up to 5 times, increasing her attack speed and doing extra magic damage per auto. Jax vs Major Start E and just keep E'ing into his face. When he uses counter strike, activate W in response and chase him down. Make sure you end the game before Jax hits 6 items, as you don't outscale him. Never lose your lead against a Jax player. Diving into a jungle or cheese situation offers a one-shot opportunity, but beware of the challenge ahead. Past level 11, this matchup becomes nearly impossible to win. Your chances of taking down Kayle arise at levels 2, 5, 6 if you strike first, and 9. I suggest using Predator or Phase Rush as Conqueror will rarely activate against a skilled Kayle opponent. It's crucial to eliminate Mordekaiser when he's weakest, which is before level 6. If you manage to gain an advantage before he reaches level 6, the matchup becomes more manageable. To ensure his ultimate ability can't be used, silence him with your Q beforehand. When facing Tahm Kench, prioritize saving your Q until after he uses his E and gains a shield. In that case, wait a few seconds before using R for a successful execute. Teemo is particularly annoying to lane against; farm safely until level 6 and look for an all-in opportunity. Once you have access to Stridebreaker, you can one-shot him most of the time unless he has flash up. Be aware of when to give up farm to regenerate health. Against Yone, be cautious as he can poke from a safe distance without needing to engage in combat. It's challenging to match his short trades, so conserve your health and look for all-in opportunities. Yorick is relatively easy to handle in lane, but you can one-shot him with E Q combo or when you have R. However, be mindful that he will split-push quickly, so keep an eye on him when he's in side lanes.
