I'm not a bot

Although female bodies have been extensively objectified in film and theater for many years, male nudity has only recently gained prominence in mainstream media. However, with the increasing normalcy of nude scenes across all genders, creators are now more thoughtful about whether nudity is truly necessary to tell a story. In recent decades, some actors have pushed boundaries by appearing fully naked in their performances. While there's often controversy surrounding which actors use prosthetics versus their actual bodies, it's ultimately about delivering an authentic performance for the viewer. Below is a list of actors who have appeared in full-frontal scenes in various films and stage productions. * Barry Keoghan stars in Saltburn, where he has a notable full-frontal scene. * Daryl McCormack showcases his character's sensual side in Good Luck to You, Leo Grande. * Omar Ayuso exposes himself in the film On the Go. * Matt Lloyd had a full-frontal moment during his portrayal of Liam on HBO's Here and Now. * Charles Melton takes it all off in Todd Haynes' May December. * Justin Chatwin shows full-frontal, as well as other intimate moments, in Shameless. * Jordan Firstman commits to full nudity in the queer indie Rotting in the Sun. * Richard Madden becomes a social media sensation with his viral full-frontal scene. There's nothing more terrifying for fans of Netflix's "Obsession" than William Farrow, but Armitage's great looks are hard to ignore. The actor Taylor Zakhar Perez went all out in his role on Starz's Minx, fully nude in one scene. Spanish actor Martiño Rivas also got naked in Lionsgate+'s Nacho, a legendary adult film star. The show Oz featured a lot of nudity from Christopher Meloni playing Chris Keller, while Eric Dane had full-frontal scenes on HBO's Euphoria. Elias Kacavas and Henry Eikenberry also had explicit naked scenes in the same episode. Rory Culkin went fully nude on Prime Video's Swarm, and Alfie Allen had a memorable full-frontal scene on Game of Thrones. Matt Bomer shows off his body in Netflix's The Boys in the Band. Lars von Trier's Nymphomaniac features a lot of nudity from Shia LaBeouf playing Jerôme Morris, while Oscar Isaac has full-frontal scenes on HBO's Scenes From a Marriage. Aaron Taylor-Johnson is known for being fully nude in some movies, including A Million Little Pieces. Adam Demos was also among the male actors who went fully nude in Netflix's Sex/Life. A-listers have been known to bare it all on screen for various films and stage productions. Ben Affleck's nude scene in Gone Girl, Chris Pine's full-frontal moment in Outlaw King, and Daniel Radcliffe's nudity in Equus are just a few examples of actors pushing the boundaries of on-screen intimacy. Other notable performances include Ewan McGregor's numerous naked scenes in films like Young Adam and Trainspotting, Harvey Keitel's explicit scene in Bad Lieutenant, and James McAvoy's fully naked role in The Last King of Scotland. Meanwhile, Jason Segel, Jude Law, and Michael Fassbender have all showcased their vulnerability on screen, with Segel's penis visible in Forgetting Sarah Marshall, Law's iconic scene in The Talented Mr. Ripley, and Fassbender's full-frontal moment in Shame. Ever forget that steamy moment in The White Lotus's second season where Theo James' abs and… ahem… other assets made a splash in Sicily? His character may have been on everyone's hate list, but it was impossible to look away! Want to rewatch? You can catch it on Max. Meanwhile, Tom Hardy took it all off as Bronson, leaving no skin unturned. This film was the perfect chance for him to show off his, ahem, impressive physique. And if you're curious about where to watch this biopic, you can rent it in digital stores. HBO's Watchmen had its fans going wild with Yahya Abdul-Mateen II's full-frontal scene – and not just because of the story! His performance was top-notch, and that scene? Iconic. Don't miss out on this limited series; it's available to stream on Max. Industry is another HBO show that pushed boundaries (pun intended) by featuring male actors in their… ahem… natural state. Joel Kim Booster joined the ranks with his debut as Frank Wade, leaving viewers speechless. You can catch Industry on Max too! And if you thought that was all, Harry Lawtey's performance as Robert Spearing will leave you breathless – and not just because of the character's complex personality! HBO's Industry has become infamous for its liberal use of full-frontal scenes, especially featuring Lawtey. Again, you can find it on Max. But what's really interesting is how these shows are changing the game by featuring more male nudity in mainstream media. It's a shift towards equality and considering whether such scenes truly serve the story, rather than just objectifying actors. And for those who love celebrity sightings, there's even more where that came from – literally! A video has been shared with over two dozen celebrity d*ck prints for your viewing pleasure… Have a great weekend, folks! PHOTO CREDIT: Getty Images In various film projects, actors have showcased their range by including full-frontal scenes in movies and TV shows. Barry Keoghan stars opposite Jacob Elordi in Saltburn, while Daryl McCormack plays a sensual character with nude scenes in Good Luck to You, Leo Grande. Omar Ayuso levels up his acting in On the Go, where he also appears fully naked. Matt Lloyd and Charles Melton both had notable full-frontal scenes in Here and Now and May December respectively. Justin Chatwin showed off his physique as Steve Wilton in Shameless, while Jordan Firstman went all out for the film Rotting in the Sun. Richard Armitage's scene in Obsession also gained attention on social media, as did Taylor Zakhar Perez's nude moment in Minx. Martiño Rivas played a legendary adult film star with full-frontal scenes in Nacho. Given text here Euphoria and Game of Thrones are two popular TV series that have pushed the boundaries with explicit content. Several actors have been involved in full-frontal scenes in these shows and movies. For instance, Elias Kacavas played a younger version of Cal Jacobs in Euphoria, and his character had explicit naked scenes. Similarly, Alfie Allen's character Theon had a memorable full-frontal scene in Game of Thrones. In other notable mentions, Rory Culkin had an explicit shower scene in Donald Glover's series Swarm. Matt Bomer appeared in a shower scene from Netflix's film adaptation of the stage play The Boys in the Band. Lars von Trier's 2013 erotic film Nymphomaniac also features numerous full-frontal scenes, including one with Shia LaBeouf. Additionally, Oscar Isaac bared it all for his performance on HBO's Scenes From a Marriage alongside Jessica Chastain. Aaron Taylor-Johnson has appeared in several films and series that include explicit content. Sex/Life became known for its explicit storylines and scenes, while Ben Affleck had a headline-making naked scene in the Gone Girl film. Chris Pine went fully naked for a scene in the movie Outlaw King, and Daniel Radcliffe took on the role of Alan Strang in the stage production of Equus. Ewan McGregor has also appeared in several films with explicit content throughout his career. Where iconic stars go fully nude on-screen: A look at memorable moments where Hollywood's hottest hunks shed their clothes for the camera. From Jason Segel's on-screen antics to Jude Law's timeless scene in The Talented Mr. Ripley, we're counting down some of the most memorable and talked-about full-frontal moments. Starring Gillian Anderson alongside McAvoy, who takes it all off in a film that can be streamed on Starz. Also, get ready for another round of laughs from Jason Segel as he bares it all in Forgetting Sarah Marshall, now available to stream on Peacock. Fans of Take Me Out were left enthralled by Jesse Williams' shower scene, while Jonathan Sadowski's wild ride in Sex/Life has the internet talking. Jude Law's memorable moment in The Talented Mr. Ripley is one for the ages, alongside Matt Damon, Cate Blanchett, and Gwyneth Paltrow, available on Paramount+. Wild Things brings us Kevin Bacon in his full glory, a must-watch on Paramount+ (with Showtime). Mark Wahlberg gets shirtless throughout Boogie Nights, featuring a memorable penis reveal. Paul Thomas Anderson's comedy classic has a scene that will leave you blushing. Michael Fassbender takes no prisoners with Carey Mulligan in Shame, now available to rent digitally. BBC's Normal People boasts some impressive nudity from Paul Mescal, including full-frontal moments. For those looking for more, Peter Sarsgaard's memorable nude scene can be found in Kinsey, a biographical drama available to rent digitally. The White Lotus takes it up a notch with Theo James' unforgettable penis and ass reveal in its second season. Tom Hardy plays the titular character in The Bronson biopic, featuring a full-frontal moment that will leave you breathless. For those who can't get enough of Yahya Abdul-Mateen II's performances, his limited HBO series Watchmen has an unforgettable full frontal scene. Last but not least, Industry's Frank Wade brings some much-needed male nudity to the table in season three, now available on Max. Industry brings together talented individuals, including Joel Kim Booster, who brings Robert Spearing to life. HBO's Industry features a complex performance by Harry Lawtey as Pierpoint employee Robert Spearing, showcasing fluidity and sexual disposition. The show promises plenty of nudity from Lawtey. Other notable performances include Theo James, Matt Bomer, and Joel Kim Booster. In recent years, there has been an increase in male nudity on screen, shifting the focus from solely objectifying women's bodies. This change encourages more thoughtful evaluations of whether nudity is necessary for storytelling or if it serves no clear purpose. Some actors have taken a bold approach by performing full-frontal scenes in various productions. These performances require suspension of disbelief and showcase the actors' dedication to their craft. A list of actors who have performed full-frontal scenes can be found below. The list includes Barry Keoghan, Daryl McCormack, Omar Ayuso, Matt Lloyd, Charles Melton, and Justin Chatwin. Their performances are worth recognizing for their bravery and commitment to their roles. Where to watch: Showtime, MUBI Rotting in the Sun had plenty of nudity with actor Jordan Firstman showing off his body. Where to watch: MUBI, Netflix One memorable full-frontal scene came from Richard Armitage on Netflix's Obsession. Where to watch: Netflix Taylor Zakhar Perez went all out on Minx, showcasing himself fully nude. Where to watch: Starz, Lionsgate+ Spanish actor Martiño Rivas played Nacho Vidal in the series Nacho, having a sensual full-frontal scene. Where to watch: Lionsgate+, HBO Christopher Meloni delivered an incredible performance as Chris Keller on Oz, also being very naked on the show. Where to watch: Max, HBO Eric Dane had some full-frontal scenes on Euphoria playing Cal Jacobs, including a shower scene with Elias Kacavas. Where to watch: Max, HBO Henry Eikenberry, playing Derek on Euphoria, had explicit naked scenes. Where to watch: Max, HBO Rory Culkin had a viral full-frontal scene on Swarm. Where to watch: Prime Video Alfie Allen played Theon on Game of Thrones and had a memorable full-frontal scene in the first season. Where to watch: Max, Netflix Matt Bomer showed off his ass and penis in a shower scene from The Boys in the Band. Where to watch: Netflix Nymphomaniac featured plenty of nudity, including full-frontal scenes from Shia LaBeouf. Where to watch: Prime Video, HBO Oscar Isaac bared it all for Scenes From a Marriage, showing his ass and penis in different scenes. Where to watch: Max In the Marvel Cinematic Universe (MCU), actor has gained popularity for his roles in Nocturnal Animals, Tenet, and Bullet Train. In A Million Little Pieces (2018), he was featured in a full-frontal scene. Meanwhile, Ben Affleck's headline-making naked scene in Gone Girl (directed by David Fincher) gained attention. Chris Pine also went fully naked for Outlaw King, while Daniel Radcliffe appeared nude on stage in Equus. Ewan McGregor has had several naked scenes in films like Young Adam and Trainspotting. Harvey Keitel delivered an explicit full-frontal scene in Bad Lieutenant (1992). James McAvoy appeared naked in The Last King of Scotland alongside Forrest Whitaker, Kerry Washington, and Gillian Anderson. Jason Segel wrote and starred in Forgetting Sarah Marshall, featuring a scene where he showed his penis on-screen. Jesse Williams went viral for swinging his dong during a shower scene on Netflix's Sex/Life. Jude Law had an iconic naked scene in The Talented Mr. Ripley alongside Matt Damon, Cate Blanchett, and Gwyneth Paltrow. Kevin Bacon can be seen in his full glory in Wild Things (1998), while Mark Wahlberg was shirtless throughout Boogie Nights, featuring a scene where his character revealed his penis. Michael Fassbender wasn't shy about getting all naked for Shame alongside Carey Mulligan. • Normal People (BBC miniseries) - Available to rent in digital stores, featuring nudity from Paul Mescal. • Kinsey (2004 biographical drama) - Available to rent in digital stores, with a memorable nude scene by Peter Sarsgaard. • The White Lotus (TV series) - Max, starring Theo James with a notable penis and ass reveal. • Bronson (biopic) - Available to rent in digital stores, featuring Tom Hardy's full nudity. • Watchmen (HBO limited series) - Max, with Yahya Abdul-Mateen II's unforgettable full frontal scene. • Industry (HBO series) - Max, introducing a naked character debut by Joel Kim Booster and featuring Harry Lawtey's seductive performances.