You can exchange your current serial number of City Car Driving for a Steam key that will allow you to launch the simulator on Steam. However, this process will render your original serial number inactive and unable to be used again. When you receive your new Steam key, please note that your original serial number will be blocked. To start the process, follow the link provided on the official website to generate a free Steam key in exchange for your current serial number. This key is valid for one computer only, so if you want to play on multiple computers, you'll need to purchase separate licenses. Please note that once your original serial number is exchanged for a Steam key, it will no longer be active and cannot be recovered.
