Today's solution was a breeze - I solved it in just four moves with the word ARTSY. Hopefully, your day wasn't too crazy either! See you tomorrow. The answer turned out to be SPATE, and here are the steps I took: TRIAL, ARTSY, and TRIAD. Yesterday's Wordle answer was SPATE for game #1,402. This morning's puzzle had 'A', 'T', and 'E' in common with the answer, making it a nice easy one. My usual opener ORATE got all three letters green, leaving just eight possible answers according to WordleBot. The Bot suggested PLACE and TROPE as good start words, while PLATE would leave only the correct answer. On my second turn, I tried to use 'L', 'I', 'S', 'N', and 'C' as much as possible. With three green characters, SLATE turned out to be a great choice, leaving just three possibilities: SKATE, SPATE, and STATE. I went with SKATE, but it was wrong, so I tried SPATE and got the correct answer. These were my steps: SKATE, SPATE, STATE, ABATE, AGATE, PLATE, ELATE, and SLATE. Wordle is a simple game where you try to guess a five-letter word in six attempts. Each time you guess, you're told which letters are in the target word, whether they're in the right place or not. If a letter is correct and in the right spot, it turns green. If it's in the word but wrong place, it turns yellow. And if it's not in the word at all, it turns gray. There's only one puzzle per day that everyone completes together, resetting at midnight. You'll find more information about the game on our What is Wordle? article. The New York Times' Wordle game has been a huge hit, with players picking their favorite "starter word" to begin each puzzle.
