Green Day, Justin Timberlake, and Noah Kahan to headline BottleRock 2025 in Napa Valley, with a star-studded lineup including Public Enemy, Ice Cube, Khruangbin, and more. BottleRock Napa Valley is pulling out all the stops for its 2025 edition and this week has revealed its highly anticipated lineup, promising another unforgettable Memorial Day weekend for music, food, and wine enthusiasts. From May 23-25, the Napa Valley Expo will host an eclectic array of artists, headlined by Bay Area punk royalty Green Day, pop icon Justin Timberlake, and the red-hot and rising folk-pop star Noah Kahan. Green Day's return to their Northern California roots is expected to deliver an explosive set full of classics. Justin Timberlake, whose slick moves and genre-defying catalog have made him one of pop's most enduring superstars, is slated to bring his smooth showmanship and performance loaded with hits. Meanwhile, Noah Kahan, who has seen a meteoric rise thanks to his introspective, soulful songwriting, will bring a heartfelt and intimate vibe to the stage. Joining the headliners is an eclectic lineup that has something for every taste. Legendary West Coast rapper Ice Cube will bring his signature grit and charisma to Napa, while alt-rock titans Cage the Elephant are sure to electrify the crowd with their raw energy and anthems. Chill vibes will be well-represented by the ethereal grooves of Texas-based psych-funk outfit Khruangbin, a festival favorite known for their genre-blurring sound. For the first time at BottleRock, fans can look forward to a powerful performance by legendary rap pioneers Public Enemy, bringing their politically charged anthems to the festival. As always, BottleRock's legendary Williams Sonoma Culinary Stage will return, featuring celebrity chefs, musicians, and special guests collaborating on one-of-a-kind cooking demos. Previous years have featured athletes, artists, and chefs like Snoop Dogg, Twenty One Pilots, Pink, and Guy Fieri, and 2025's lineup promises equally entertaining surprises. Beyond the music, BottleRock continues to showcase the best of Napa Valley's world-renowned wine, craft beer, and gourmet food. Attendees can indulge in offerings from some of the region's top restaurants, wineries, and breweries, all while enjoying live performances on multiple stages. Single-day VIP and GA tickets go on sale tomorrow, January 16, at 10 AM PT. Three-day tickets are already available so you need to act quick if you want to secure yours. Whether you're a longtime fan of Green Day, excited to see Justin Timberlake's pop spectacle, or eager to catch Public Enemy's groundbreaking sound, BottleRock 2025 promises a weekend of unforgettable music and world-class Napa Valley culture. With over 70 artists performing across multiple stages, BottleRock's 2025 lineup offers a perfect blend of nostalgia, cutting-edge talent, and festival favorites, ensuring something for everyone to enjoy. As Presenting Sponsor, JaM Cellars will bring the beats and Butter Wines—including NEW ButterLight Chardonnay —to the heart of downtown Napa, taking center stage with the signature JaM Cellars Stage, where this year's headliners —Green Day, Justin Timberlake, Noah Kahan, and more — will perform. Set against the backdrop of wine country, BottleRock Napa Valley blends world-class music with the region's best in food, wine, and hospitality over three unforgettable days during Memorial Day weekend. "Marking a decade as Presenting Sponsor of BottleRock is a true honor," said John Anthony Truchard, Founder and CEO of JaM Cellars. "From those early days of sharing our wines at a growing local festival to now spotlighting global music icons on the JaM Cellars Stage, it's been an incredible journey. BottleRock and JaM Cellars have grown hand-in-hand, united by a passion for top-tier wine, music, and unforgettable experiences right in the heart of Napa Valley. We're especially excited to debut our newest Butter wine—ButterLight—at this year's festival, pouring all weekend long at the JaMPad." JaM Cellars' fan-favorite activation, The JaMPad, returns as the ultimate backstage-meets-lounge experience, where festival-goers can sip their way through the full lineup of Butter Wines including Butter Chardonnay, NEW ButterLight Chardonnay, Butter Sauv Blanc, Butter Pinot Noir, Butter Cab and Butter Bubbles. Released earlier this year and named "#1 Best-Tasting Light Wine" by The Tasting Panel2, ButterLight offers wine lovers an authentic grape-to-bottle, great-tasting glass of wine at just 85 calories—almost a third less than regular wines and 40% less alcohol3. The JaMPad, hosted by HearRadio's Jana Stroud, will once again deliver exclusive JaMSessions all weekend long—featuring intimate acoustic performances from this year's top artists including Remi Wolf, Linda Perry (of 4 Non Blondes), Chaparell, and more. "We're thrilled to be back for another unforgettable weekend, sharing our Butter wines, hosting JaMSessions at the JaMPad, and celebrating in our Napa hometown. It doesn't get more fun—or more delicious—than this." John and Michele Truchard—the "J" and "M" in JaM Cellars—are Napa Valley vintners who share a deep love for wine, music, and community. After marrying in 1998, they poured years of passion and persistence into building a wine brand that brings joy to everyday moments. When the 2008 recession hit, they responded with Butter—launching JaM Cellars to make rich, flavorful wines at an approachable price. What began with JaM Cabernet and Butter Chardonnay has grown into a nationally-adored collection of easy-to-love Californian wines, all crafted with heart, from grape to glass.
