I’m really confused right now... I joined the Daum fancafe for Mamamoo and was excited to see all their posts, but I can’t find any of them... :sob: I speak Korean, so one would think it would be easy to navigate the fancafe, but NO. It could also be because I’ve been living abroad for 10 years, but my Korean level isn’t too bad... despite this, it’s really hard to understand how the fancafe works because there are many specific requirements and lots of official, hard-to-understand terms. I was really looking forward to using the fancafe!! First, I found out you have to 'level up' to see posts by Mamamoo and other boards. However, I don’t know how to level up... if it requires voting on Korean music charts, I don’t think I can because these charts likely only allow Korean residents to vote. Second, I know the fancafe is official, but it feels so cold... it’s not like Amino, where people can share freely and have a nice community of moomoos... there are strict rules on how to write posts. I thought I could help fellow moomoos struggling with Korean on the fancafe, but it seems I’m the one who needs help!! The fancafe also feels structured in a very Korean way. With Korean culture, there’s conservative thinking and a colder feeling. In that sense, the fancafe’s structure (made by Daum) is more closed-off and cold. There are locked posts until you level up, and rules about using , which is formal speech. Advice: if you’re not familiar with Korean culture or Hangul, I recommend not joining the fancafe. It can stress you out a lot :disappointed_relieved: . Also, it’s harder for international fans to use the official fancafe. I think Amino could be a better community for international moomoos—it’s more westernized and easier to access... I really want to use the fancafe fully to contact and support Mamamoo more, but it’s difficult for me. If there are any angels who can help me learn how to use the fancafe, I’d be really grateful!! Maybe my view of the fancafe will change over time... I really hope it does.. UPDATE: I leveled up on the fancafe and got to wish Byulie a happy birthday too :)).. I finally got the hang of it :blush: 31 Like 31 Into MAMAMOO? Join the community. Get Amino Into MAMAMOO? Join the community. These regulations cover your nickname, personal settings, demotion record, visiting days, album proof, and Youtube stream capture. Firstly, ensure that your nickname is not confusing with Mamamoo's name or other celebrities. It should also not contain vulgar language, special characters, or single hangeul letters. The maximum number of characters allowed is 11. Next, review your personal settings, including ID, gender/age, and reception settings. These need to be open to managers for verification purposes. If you've been demoted, wait for two weeks from the demoted day before applying for level up. This allows time for any necessary adjustments or corrections. To progress, accumulate at least five visiting days within a specified timeframe. Your visits will be counted automatically each day you attend the fan cafe. A crucial step is to display proof of possession for Mamamoo's latest album, such as "Red Moon." The photo must clearly show the album's code on the back and not include any alterations or additions. Lastly, capture a screenshot of Mamamoo's official Youtube stream.Rewritten text: To Get Level Up on "Intl.MMs Level Up" Board ========== Level Up in Fan Cafe: A Step-by-Step Guide As of June 13th, Mamamoo Official Fan Cafe has updated its Level Up system.
