Jura's unrelenting curiosity drives him to expand his knowledge, often at the cost of others' lives. Despite lacking clear ambitions, Jura will stop at nothing to achieve his goals. On the opposite end, Boruto has teamed up with Kashin Koji, a clone possessing the ability to see multiple futures, who warned him about possible events that could lead to the creation of the Human God Trees. The Two Blue Vortex manga series continues to captivate readers worldwide with its intense action sequences and emotional depth. As the sequel to Boruto: Naruto Next Generations, this installment follows a more seasoned Boruto Uzumaki and his allies as they face formidable new foes. In Chapter 21, Sarada Uchiha showcased her growth as a shinobi by unlocking her Mangekyo Sharingan, a rare and powerful ability that allows her to manipulate gravity. Her display of power marked her as one of the strongest users of this dojutsu in the Naruto universe. Meanwhile, Konohamaru Sarutobi faced off against another Human Divine Tree (Shinju) named Matsuri, but hesitated due to her emotional manipulation, allowing her to survive momentarily. Boruto's intervention against Matsuri inadvertently played into a trap set by the Shinju leader, Jura, who located Boruto through his link with Matsuri. Chapter 22 is expected to escalate this tension, promising a high-stakes clash between Boruto and Jura, as well as deeper insights into the Shinju's plans. The chapter may also hint at the influence of Momoshiki Otsutsuki. This article recaps Chapter 21 and explores the key developments in Chapter 22, based on official releases and leaks. The landmark chapter, released in April 2025, focused heavily on Sarada's battle against Ryu, a Human Divine Tree who had gravely injured Yodo, a Sand Ninja. In response to this event, Sarada activated her Mangekyo Sharingan, revealing a gravity-manipulating technique that allows her to create and control black hole-like spheres. In the aftermath of Chapter 20, Sarada's Mangekyo Sharingan ability was revealed to be a powerful tool that she can use to selectively attract matter. She used this ability in Chapter 21 to neutralize Ryu's Iron Sand attacks and ultimately defeat him by sucking him into a black orb and causing an explosive impact. The chapter also included a poignant flashback where Sasuke explained to Boruto that Sarada's Mangekyo awakening was proof of her conviction, stemming from the emotional shock of Eida's Omnipotence Shinjutsu. This event left Boruto ostracized, highlighting the complexity of his relationships with those around him. The chapter ended on a cliffhanger, setting up a potentially catastrophic battle between Jura and Boruto. Yodo's death was also mentioned, leaving readers anticipating the events that will unfold in Chapter 22. Boruto: Two Blue Vortex Chapter 22 to Deepen Narrative with Action and Threats As Sarada's resolve grows stronger after her sacrifice for Shinki, her romantic feelings for Boruto add an emotional layer to her character arc. The latest chapter, Boruto: Two Blue Vortex Chapter 21, marked a turning point, highlighting Sarada's dominance and Boruto's return to the battlefield. Chapter 22 is expected to escalate the conflict in the Land of Wind, focusing on Boruto's battle with Jura and the aftermath of Sarada's fight. The chapter will delve into intense action, strategic maneuvering, and looming threats from Momoshiki Otsutsuki. Jura's arrival via his Claw Marks teleportation technique has been revealed, along with a preview showing Mitsuki looking surprised. Another sneak peek confirmed that Jura will fight Boruto, showcasing his superior power in the upcoming chapter. Meanwhile, Sarada is expected to be unconscious, weakened by the strain of using Ohirume for the first time. Mitsuki and Araya will likely protect Sarada and mourn Yodo's confirmed death, while Konohamaru will reflect on his need to protect his team, hinting at a potential Sage Mode power-up in future chapters. Boruto's rescue reinforces their mentor-student bond, echoing Naruto and Jiraiya's dynamic. The release date for Chapter 22 has been set for May 21, 2025, with various regions having different release times.
