The pivotal film Main Hoon Na directed by Farah Khan in 2004 revolves around Major Ram Sharma, portrayed by Shahrukh Khan, who undertakes a perilous mission to safeguard his general's daughter from a rogue soldier while reconciling with his family, as desired by his late father, ----- Shah Rukh Khan's affinity for this film is well-known. Now, Satish Shah, who played Professor Madhav Rasai in Main Hoon Na, opened up about how SRK convinced him to take on the role. The character of Professor Rasai was depicted as short-tempered and spitting while speaking, which took an enormous amount of practice for Satish Shah. ----- Satish revealed that when he first heard about the part of Professor Rasai, he wasn't sure if he wanted it, but Shah Rukh Khan assured him that this character would be a great opportunity. SRK told Satish, "You will not believe it; I had to practice a lot. It was not trick photography. I was given a choice... Shah Rukh is a very smart guy... He said we have two roles, one is of the principal and the other is Professor Rasai."
