

I'm not a bot

1) The Logo: On Emporio Armani items, the Armani Eagle is often used. However, naturally the A/X logo is not used on Emporio. So, if your prospective purchase's tags say Armani Exchange but use the eagle anywhere on the garment or its tags, it is likely a counterfeit. How can you tell if Armani is real? Every garment comes with a special identification code called Certilogo: the certification service can be accessed by anyone from a PC, tablet or smartphone in order to verify the authenticity of a product. What is the real Armani brand? Giorgio Armani/Giorgio Armani: This label is Armani's signature high-end brand which specialised in ready-to-wear men's and women's clothing. Who Does Giorgio Armani Design For? Is Emporio Armani Made in China? In addition, Prada, Burberry, Armani, Dolce & Gabbana, Miu Miu and so on are producing products in China. About 20 percent of Prada bags, clothes and shoes are manufactured in China. What is the difference between Emporio Armani and Armani Exchange? So to recap, the main differences between the two brands are that Emporio Armani holds a higher price tag to Armani Exchange. It holds more formal and sought after items created by Giorgio Armani himself, whereas A/X holds pieces more suited to everyday casual wear. Where are Armani bags made? Italy Armani's super-luxury range, sold under the Giorgio Armani label, is also exclusively manufactured in Italy. Which Silk Is Most Expensive? What is the difference between Giorgio Armani and Armani Collezioni? Armani Collezioni (formerly Giorgio Armani Le Collezioni) was the diffusion line of Giorgio Armani that retails at a lower price than Giorgio Armani and the haute couture line, Armani Privé. The logo was usually displayed black written on a white label, but often varies. Where is Armani Exchange brand from? Italy This is a famous Italian fashion brand created in the year 1975 by Giorgio Armani, who is one of the most respected designers, not only in Italy, but also all over the world. Which Armani is more expensive? Giorgio Armani is also a clothing line that is known to be very expensive, and high-end. Emporio Armani is a less expensive brand that targets younger customers. Who Makes Armani Perfumes? Is Emporio Armani real Armani? Emporio Armani and Armani Exchange are labels produced by the Giorgio Armani fashion house. The name Armani itself brings images of ready to wear clothing as well as accessories such as watches, sunglasses, wallets, handbags, belts, swimwear, undergarments etc. What does EA7 stand for? So, why EA7? EA is obviously Emporio Armani and the seven comes from Giorgio Armani's love for AC Milan, and his close friend Andriy Shevchenko who wore the number seven while at the club. Where is Armani glasses made? Armani is owned by the Luxottica family of brands, so Emporio Armani glasses are manufactured by Luxottica and are made in Italy. Is Anais Anais Still Made? What are Armani sunglasses made of? Giorgio Armani sunglasses styles They're made in Italy with ultrathin titanium frames and solid-color lenses. They come in various color combinations, including gray frames with blue lenses and matte gold frames with brown lenses. Is Armani Exchange made in China? Something else to note with A/X is that if the country of manufacture says Italy it is probably fake, as only the higher end Armani brands feature items made in Italy. Common places of manufacture are China, Hong Kong and Bangladesh. What luxury brands are not made in China? Gucci, - A. Gucci built its brand on "Made in Italy" and so they knew early on it would be foolish to outsource to China. Rolex, - A. All Rolex watches are made in Switzerland. Chanel, - A. Louis Vuitton, - A. Prada, - D. Dior, - B. Armani, - C. Coach, - F. What is Armani brand famous for? Giorgio Armani, (born July 11, 1934, Piacenza, Italy), Italian fashion designer whose signature style of relaxed yet luxurious ready-to-wear and elegant, intricately beaded evening wear helped introduce ease and streamlined modernity to late 20th-century dressing. Is Armani a luxury brand? It maintains the aura of a real luxury brand. Not only has Giorgio Armani become one of the most respected and known brand names in the fashion and luxury brand industry, it is also one of the most highly valued fashion companies in the world. What does Armani Privé mean? Armani Privé is the haute couture offering from fashion designer Giorgio Armani. Armani showed his first Armani Privé collection of 31 looks during the S/S 05 haute couture shows. What Is The Difference Between High Fashion And Haute Couture? How many types of Armani are there? Fast forward to the modern day and Armani now has condensed his labels into three main lines, Giorgio Armani, Armani Exchange and Emporio Armani of which EA7 sits within. What happened to Armani? Armani, who studied to be a doctor while growing up in the town of Piacenza, took the coronavirus seriously from the beginning, as a threat to both his and his employees' health. He became the first major designer to shut down the catwalks during Milan Fashion Week in February 2020. Which designer bags are made in China? Designer bags made in China The following are some of the brands who currently source from China: Prada (selected designs), Coach, Armani, Dolce & Gabbana, Burberry, Mulberry, Marc Jacobs (leather or materials imported from Italy, but goods manufactured in China), Tory Burch, Kate Spade, Tumi and Samsonite luggage. How Can You Tell Fake Armani? Armani represents elegance. The high-end fashion maker has several lines and tailors to different markets. Armani clothing is expensive, and many counterfeit sellers try to make money by tricking consumers into buying fake armani clothing like leather jackets. To ensure you don't buy a fake Armani leather jacket, expose yourself to the brand by examining photographs and the clothing at trusted retailers. If you ever doubt the leather jacket's authenticity, then ask the seller a lot of questions to make sure he is not selling you a fake. Look for the words "RGA," "A Collezione," or "Reportage." If the seller advertises a clothing line that says "RGA/Reportage," then the leather jacket is not authentic. Armani never had a line of clothing with this name. These names will often appear on the tags of the leather jackets as well. Inspect the price tag of the leather jacket. Armani jackets sell in the upper hundreds of dollars as of 2010. If the leather jacket has a price tag of anything in the lower hundreds and it does not have any cosmetic damage, then the jacket is likely a fake. Examine the tag on the Armani leather jacket. Look at the stitches. They will never appear imperfect or crooked. The stitches will appear strong and perfect on real Armani leather jackets. The sewed tags will also be a smooth square, and will never have jagged edges. Check out the label colors. Giorgio Armani Black Label clothes' will have black labels with white letters. A Giorgio Armani Classico label will have a navy blue background with silver letters. The Giorgio Armani Collezioni label will appear white with black letters. Emporio Armani labels have a cream background color with black letters, or a black label with white letters. Inspect the text on the labels. Authentic labels will have say "ARMANI" in all capital letters. The labels will also say, "Made in Italy." real "stoners" don't care about the brand of clothing they are wearing. They only care if it's comfortable and good for the environment. Armani Exchange (A/X) and Emporio Armani are - in my experience - the two most commonly found Armani product lines in thrift/vintage stores and from 3rd party sellers on sites such as eBay. As with any desirable luxury brand, there are bound to be counterfeits; here are some telltale signs to look for when trying to ascertain whether your possible purchase is the real deal. 1) The Logo: An important check to make when verifying the garment is to check the logo, as the two labels are distinct in what they use. Armani Exchange is denoted by the signature A/X logo, and this is the only logo used on genuine A/X clothing; it is important to note that the Armani Eagle is never used on this line. The A/X may be stylised with the separator at different angles, it is not restricted to having the separator at a vertical stand. On Emporio Armani items, the Armani Eagle is often used. However, naturally the A/X logo is not used on Emporio. So, if your prospective purchase's tags say Armani Exchange but use the eagle anywhere on the garment or its tags, it is likely a counterfeit. Likewise if it says Emporio Armani and has the A/X logo; leave it on the track. Exterior tag on a genuine A/X sweater, note the separator at a 45 degree angle. Armani Eagle seen on a pair of Emporio Armani boots. 2) Label and Laundry Tags: Example of older style laundry tag with Simint SpA signature. Newer A/X tag, note the G.A Operations SpA signature just under the laundry symbols. Older Armani items often bore the logo of Simint SpA on the laundry tags as the manufacturer. Post-2002 items should bear the signature of G.A. Operations SpA. If neither of these names are present, be suspicious. Something else to note with A/X is that if the country of manufacture says Italy it is probably fake, as only the higher end Armani brands feature items made in Italy. Common places of manufacture are China, Hong Kong and Bangladesh. Standard A/X tags; note the fonts used, spacing and layout. With Emporio, most items appear to be manufactured in similar manufacturing hubs although some items - such as shoes - can be Italian made. Be warned that if the label of some Emporio shoes says Made in Italy but there is no 'Vero Cuoio' stamp present anywhere on the insole or sole, you may also be dealing with a fake (Vero Cuoio is an Italian industry standard for leather quality). A vintage Emporio Armani chelsea boot insole. Note that it says Made in Italy, and the Vero Cuoio stamp near the top of this image. 3) Quality: This may go without saying for some, but it is easy to get caught up in the excitement of a prospective ripper deal when you see Armani written on a garment and overlook the most basic checks. Fabrics on Armani garments are usually quite good, and the construction is always good. Be extra vigilant when examining the construction as some vintage fabrics do not feel so great after a long time, but construction is always a giveaway. This brand is reputed for good quality control, and that should be exemplified in any garment you come across. Does the garment in question have poor stitching? That would be a warning sign. Furthermore, make sure to watch out for spelling mistakes on the tags, garment care tags or anywhere else on the garment. This is an instant marker of a counterfeit. That's all for now! Now you have some insight into how legitimate A/X and Emporio Armani garments look. Keep this information in mind on your next online purchase or thrifting adventure and it will help you avoid counterfeit items! Emporio Collezioni is a brand that has been associated with the Armani brand for several years. However, many people are confused about whether Emporio Collezioni is an authentic Armani brand or not. This article aims to provide a comprehensive understanding of the relationship between the two brands and help the readers in identifying authentic Emporio Collezioni products. The Armani brand: History and background Armani is a renowned Italian fashion house that was founded by Giorgio Armani in 1975. The brand is known for its high-end fashion products, including clothing, accessories, and fragrances. During its inception, the brand gained worldwide recognition for its minimalistic yet sophisticated designs. Today, Armani has established itself as one of the leading fashion brands in the world, with its products being sold in over 60 countries. The Armani brand is structured into several sub-brands, each catering to a specific market segment. The sub-brands include Giorgio Armani, Emporio Armani, Armani Exchange, Armani Junior, Armani Casa, and Armani Privé. Each sub-brand has its distinctive style and caters to a diverse audience. Emporio Collezioni is a sub-brand of Emporio Armani. The brand was launched in the 1980s and caters to a younger audience. Emporio Collezioni features a range of casual and trendy clothing, including jackets, T-shirts, and jeans. The brand is known for its contemporary designs and youthful appeal. Emporio Collezioni is a sub-brand of Emporio Armani, which is a sub-brand of the Armani brand. Therefore, Emporio Collezioni is an authentic Armani brand. However, it is important to note that Emporio Collezioni has its distinctive style and caters to a specific market segment. The Armani logo is a stylized eagle with spread wings. The Emporio Armani logo features a stylized 'EA' with an asymmetric line running through it. The Emporio Collezioni logo features a stylized 'EC' with jagged edges. Emporio Armani and Emporio Collezioni are two distinct sub-brands of the Armani brand. Emporio Armani caters to a more mature audience and features high-end fashion products, including suits, dresses, and accessories. Emporio Collezioni, on the other hand, caters to a younger audience and features casual and trendy clothing. Authentic Emporio Collezioni products are made from high-quality materials and feature impeccable craftsmanship. The products come with a tag that indicates the product code, size, and fabric composition. The tag also features the Emporio Collezioni logo and the Armani logo. To identify authentic Emporio Collezioni products, it is essential to purchase from authorized retailers. Authentic products come with a tag that features the Emporio Collezioni logo and the Armani logo. The products are made from high-quality materials and feature impeccable craftsmanship. Like any other popular brand, Emporio Collezioni is prone to counterfeit products. Counterfeit products are made from low-quality materials and often feature poor craftsmanship. It is essential to purchase from authorized retailers to avoid purchasing counterfeit products. Conclusion: Emporio Collezioni and the Armani brand Emporio Collezioni is an authentic Armani brand that caters to a younger audience. The brand features trendy and casual clothing, including jackets, T-shirts, and jeans. To identify authentic Emporio Collezioni products, it is essential to purchase from authorized retailers. When purchasing Emporio Collezioni products, it is essential to purchase from authorized retailers. Authentic products come with a tag that features the Emporio Collezioni logo and the Armani logo. It is also important to check the quality of the product and avoid purchasing counterfeit products. Skip to main content Reddit and its partners use cookies and similar technologies to provide you with a better experience. By accepting all cookies, you agree to our use of cookies to deliver and maintain our services and site, improve the quality of Reddit, personalize Reddit content and advertising, and measure the effectiveness of advertising. By rejecting non-essential cookies, Reddit may still use certain cookies to ensure the proper functionality of our platform. For more information, please see our Cookie Notice and our Privacy Policy. Joined Aug 2, 2009 Messages 108 Reaction score 3 What brand is better? I know the general idea is Collezioni is better but I've heard that Emporio has gotten much better with a lot of stuff made in Italy. Plus Giorgio Armani doesn't have any input in the collezioni anymore, just BL and Emporio. Thoughts? Like Reply Joined Mar 23, 2007 Messages 5,925 Reaction score 1,342 Dirt washes off, ignorance is much harder to remove. And willful ignorance is the precursor, if not the essential ingredient, of stupidity. - DWFII Like Reply Joined Apr 11, 2009 Messages 849 Reaction score 3 Originally Posted by IndianBoyz A/X Quote: Originally Posted by imightbeach Ahab, you've taken moran to the next level. Quote: Originally Posted by SpallaCamicia YouA've been reported for censor and lack of education. Thanks Like Reply Joined May 23, 2009 Messages 3,437 Reaction score 147 ok I was kidding, thanks for the attention Acid. Emporio Armani has a nice range of suits, I wouldn't buy them myself but their silhouette is very cool. Like Reply Joined Jun 24, 2008 Messages 1,128 Reaction score 4 Emporio has dramatically increased quality and Italian production. All products are made by Armani factories in Milan or in Turkey (like 3 t-shirts per season are made there + underwear and some EA7 stuff), no outside companies (including SimonT which is owned by GA in the first place). AC is crap, I do not know why people like it so much. Their $500 sweaters feel like sandpaper. I did pick up a nice hand made wool sweater at Saks that was like 90% off for like $144. Their cuts are conservative to appeal to Americans. EA is for people under the age of $40 with spending power. AC according to Armani himself, is for people 60 and over that no longer feel the need to chase fashion. Like Reply Reactions: 1 person Joined Jul 17, 2009 Messages 592 Reaction score 1 I think it really depends on what you're looking for. If you're looking for a classic fitting suits with 4" width ties, then AC would be better. However, if you'd like a more modern silhouette with a wide range of attire to choose from, Emporio would be better. I'm a self admitted Armani fan (along with Varvatos make up my two favorite designers). I have at least two dozen pieces from each line Giorgio, Collezioni, and Emporio. In the end, I find myself wearing Emporio's line most often. Why? I feel stylish and modern when I wear Emporio; yet over-the-hill, 40+ year old whenever I put on AC or Giorgio. Material wise, I see little difference between the quality of the fabrics. However, AC's suiting line is more likely to be canvassed as opposed to Emporio's. Only the higher end ($1,800) Napoli line is canvassed. However, I've never been disappointed because Armani tends to cut its clothing so well that the rolls drape perfectly to begin with. In the end, decide how you want to look: Classic (Old people) -> Collezioni Modern & Young (20-30 somethings) -> Emporio Like Reply Joined May 25, 2009 Messages 62 Reaction score 0 I would also add that EA suits tend to be very fashion-forward in both cut and fabric, often have a slight sheen, and are not suitable for e.g. legal/banking professions. AC suits can be worn at the workplace though, but note that they are mostly unvented. Like Reply Joined Jun 2, 2009 Messages 621 Reaction score 5 Originally Posted by ranker Classic (Old people) -> Collezioni Modern & Young (20-30 somethings) -> Emporio Collezioni is for confident smart buyers regardless of age. Collezioni stands the test of time. Emporio is for 20-30 somethings who waste money chasing trends, and try to impress people that don't really care about them anyway. Like Reply Joined Jun 24, 2008 Messages 1,128 Reaction score 4 Originally Posted by Mild Mannered Collezioni is for confident smart buyers regardless of age. Collezioni stands the test of time. Emporio is for 20-30 somethings who waste money chasing trends, and try to impress people that don't really care about them anyway. Untrue. Saying that I am sure you never went to an EA store or have seen a runway show. EA menswear does not look at trends. EA womenswear does. EA has its own unique look, fit, fabrics etc. EA quality is now better than AC. AC is a diffusion line for GA, it is not meant to be higher standards than Emporio, according to Armani in HIS BOOK it was made for elderly clients, retiring for chasing trends. EA is its own line, independent from the GA and AC line. AJ is EA's diffusion line. AC is not even a full line, they make a few suits, pants, shirts and jackets. Not even belts or scarves or even gloves or ties. Like Reply Joined Jun 24, 2008 Messages 1,128 Reaction score 4 Honestly you cannot compare EA and AC because they are not related or competing lines with different groups purchasing them. Like Reply Joined Feb 1, 2005 Messages 551 Reaction score 2 Is the Armani Collezioni line garbage? I'm looking for a possibly "fashion-forward" jacket/blazer and saw some fairly nice ones in the Armani Collezioni line. However, I prefer not to purchase garbage. Has anyone here on the board owned one, and if so, what did you think? Was yours wool, synthetic, or other fabric? How did it wear? Thank you. Like Reply Joined Mar 5, 2002 Messages 340 Reaction score 0 Personally, I don't think they're garbage, but they're not worth full retail. Generally fused with decent quality. The silhouette nowadays is pretty good, but I'd avoid anything being sold on eBay that isn't clearly from the past couple of seasons. There are still plenty of jackets floating around there with aircraft carrier shoulders and gorges and button stances somewhere around the crotch. Like Reply Joined Jan 3, 2005 Messages 45 Reaction score 0 I have a couple of AC pants, I like them very much. The fit is perfect for my figure. I'm not familiar with the jacket unfortunately. Like Reply Joined Sep 18, 2002 Messages 497 Reaction score 1 No ownership here, but I've tried some on and sadly they don't fit my figure. They are cut too long for me and do not flatter. The consensus seems to be that they are made from good, interesting fabrics. The workmanship is, not by a long shot, first class but still good. They have a fused front but it is very soft and nothing to complain about. Perhaps it will affect their lifespan but then again, they are so contemporary that they are almost consumables. If you'll still be wearing it after the fusing fails, you've got worse problems. B Like Reply Joined Jun 21, 2004 Messages 443 Reaction score 2 I purchased three Armani Collezioni jackets on sale at NM Last Call and am happy with all of them. They are wool, wool blends (alpaca, silk etc.) and while they are fused, I am partial to the woven fabrics, which are "fashion forward." Two are single button and are great for casual wear and around the office when I don't have to wear a suit. The Armani cut on these also quite nice. Over the three years I've owned them, I have received a number of compliments on them. If you can buy them at a good price, they're great jackets to own. Like Reply Joined Apr 22, 2004 Messages 1,620 Reaction score 5 I agree with sevcom. I own one MTM armani suit. When I wear it, I get more compliments from ladies than Brioni, Zegna, or Canali suits. Armani's fusing is one the best. It's so soft that the lapels roll like canvased suits. But, I would not buy Armani suits anymore. Since I am a fan of canvased suits. But if I had money and had to buy items from well marked euro designers, it would be Armani. Like Reply Joined Jan 29, 2003 Messages 2,533 Reaction score 208 LP, I used to think Armani Collezioni made really nice stuff in highschool. A Since joining this forum and shopping in New York, and to a lesser extent San Francisco, I can't see myself EVER buying Collezioni, even for fashion forward pieces. There are just too many "alternative" designers who offer fashionable pieces with better detailing and/or superior construction. A The most likely candidates in these categories include: Construction: Jil Sander Helmut Lang Prada Costume National (the newer City suits are fused) Detailing: Martin Margiela 10 (a little "out there" at times) Junya Watanabe for CDG Paul Smith Etro (should be placed on both lists) Heck, even the Z line from Zegna appeals to me more than Armani.. the shoulders never look right on me for reasons unknown. "I kill silverfish with my bare hands" Like Reply Joined Sep 28, 2004 Messages 5,601 Reaction score 11 Prelude: I've already mentioned this suit before, but for the present conversation, it is perhaps worth another mention. Experience: I fell for a black wool suit by Armani C. (AC) in the comfort model, one button, ventless. This piece breaks every rule. Nevertheless, when I bought it, I understood what I was doing. I knew what I was getting. I was buying a particular look. AC has that look like no other designer. Prada is not AC is not Etro is not Kiton is not Saville Row. I would not make comparisons. Advice: go for an AC suit if it flatters you, try to get it at a discount, and don't buy deep. I own one Armani suit and it is enough. When I want that look, I wear that. Period. Every child knows that play is nobler than work. -Cormac McCarthy Like Reply Joined Mar 12, 2002 Messages 2,323 Reaction score 16 I have one and it's a very particular piece. A beige plaid 3-button double vent with flat fronts. Bought it on Ebay for about $400. It's strictly a summer suit, and one I wear on a Friday with brouges. Fabric is pretty nice, construction is pretty crappy, but the fit is fabulous and the styling is wonderful. I love the suit, but bought it because I was looking specifically for a beige summer suit, not because it was an Armani. Like Reply Joined Jun 4, 2004 Messages 48 Reaction score 0 C can be attractive, but in my experience wears out more rapidly than some of the better constructed suits and coats. The materials that are used can be interesting but the looser weaves may tend to snag easily. I don't buy AC with the expectation that I will have it in use ten years from now. In a related vein, are Armani black label suits fused or canvas? Like Reply Joined Sep 28, 2004 Messages 5,601 Reaction score 11 In a related vein, are Armani black label suits fused or canvas? I don't relate to the term "black label" with regards to Armani. When referring to the "Giorgio Armani" label, those suits are fully canvassed and cost twice as much as suits in the Armani Collezioni line. However, Giorgio Armani RTW suits, at least recently, are not cut slim. This is an observation I made at a store in the United States and may not be universal. Giorgio Armani does have a MTM program; I suppose one could request a slimmer fit in their models. However, I don't see much of an advantage to the Giorgio Armani line, unless the fabrics appeal to you and the generous cut is flattering. It seems the high cost of those suits is unjustified. Every child knows that play is nobler than work. -Cormac McCarthy Like Reply Joined Feb 2, 2005 Messages 1,580 Reaction score 17 C are sort of a full cut, machine made, out of the mill suits. They would compare to Hugo Boss or Z Zegna. Nothing worth the outrageous price tag, really. But then again, among most people, it would probably be the epitome of fashion, luxury and style. . Like Reply Joined Sep 28, 2004 Messages 5,601 Reaction score 11 AC are sort of a full cut, machine made, out of the mill suits. They would compare to Hugo Boss or Z Zegna. Nothing worth the outrageous price tag, really. But then again, among most people, it would probably be the epitome of fashion, luxury and style. . Like I disagree regarding "full cut" across the board. There are various AC models, only some of which are cut full. Every child knows that play is nobler than work. -Cormac McCarthy Like Reply Joined Feb 2, 2005 Messages 1,580 Reaction score 17 johnapril : okay, point taken. I haven't been in the whole line. They are somewhat fuller cut than designer suits though (dolce & gabbana, jil sander, ...etc). Like Reply Joined Sep 28, 2004 Messages 5,601 Reaction score 11 Oh, yes I tried on a Dolce & Gabbana for spring 2005, in my size, the thing was made for an anorexic woman. Every child knows that play is nobler than work. -Cormac McCarthy Like Reply Joined Apr 11, 2011 Messages 15 Reaction score 0 Hi guys my first post in SF after months of reading, i am getting buyer's remorse after buying a Giorgio Armani Shoes today, even after 60% off its still over priced, but it was kinda love at first sight. I guess i wanted to see what u guys think so i can either feel better about myself or feel worse ~ ~. Also i cant seem to find any info(what collections) regarding the shoes, will be very grateful for any info. Attached fit pic please be gentle. Like Reply Joined Sep 24, 2009 Messages 4,438 Reaction score 349 Nice pickup at Wal-Mart! EDIT: Oh, nvm, I didn't know you paid more than $10 for them. Like Reply Joined Apr 11, 2011 Messages 15 Reaction score 0 sigh i guess it does look kinda cheap, but actually in person the quality is really nice. oh well.. I am still learning ~ ~ thanks for the feedbacks Like Reply Joined Jul 18, 2007 Messages 8,366 Reaction score 1,236 If you told me they cost about $40-50 and you got them at Rockport I'd believe it. "Somebody is definitely going to say, "why don't you just be yourself". Well, I've tried that already, hence my interest in Style Forum." ~ Lear "Sometimes the desire to press the buttons on one's keyboard outweighs the fact that one has nothing to say" ~ trogdor Like Reply Joined Apr 11, 2011 Messages 15 Reaction score 0 Originally Posted by Master-Classter If you told me they cost about $40-50 and you got them at Rockport I'd believe it. ouch ~ ~ yea i can see what u mean. sigh, i will use it as a beater or something Like Reply Joined Mar 14, 2006 Messages 14,663 Reaction score 1,165 ^We've all been there... saw something that in the moment we thought we really liked, then saw that it was on sale, blagh blagh... and we grabbed at it. This is one of the main things to get over, and it's a great feeling when you can finally look at something and know that you really don't want it, and don't get swept up in the (self-created) hype. That being said, I'm with the others that these are not particularly attractive shoes, nor is the quality going to be great, and I think the situations in which you'll find them wearable will be very limited. Nevertheless, I don't trust SF you like the shoes. It seems like you don't like them, so we're just reinforcing sort of what you already knew. BUT, live and learn. Always follow the advice of Prof. Fabulous. "What?" - Richard M. Nixon Like Reply Joined Jul 18, 2007 Messages 8,366 Reaction score 1,236 I was expecting something a little sleek and shiny for $400 and was planning to tell you to ignore what everyone says and just enjoy them, but TBH those are really pretty bad IMO. Like maybe if you're 60, wearing a baggy polo and big shorts, these are what you'd wear on a cruise ship or something. Even for Armani I'm surprised. Sorry. haha its ok, my wife said the same thing when she saw it (ewww that's an old mans shoes).... Like Reply Joined Mar 14, 2006 Messages 14,663 Reaction score 1,165 ^I thought the shoes very unattractive from the start, but when I looked at the tag and saw that it was real cayman and real horsehair, I then thought, "OMG how much were these things?" If you can return them, I think that would be great. For the amount you spent, it's almost guaranteed that you could have gotten one... maybe even two... pairs of really nice, classic, useful shoes that you'll be wearing for a long time. I just don't see how you can wear these very often, or why you'd want to. Always follow the advice of Prof. Fabulous. "What?" - Richard M. Nixon Like Reply Joined Apr 11, 2011 Messages 15 Reaction score 0 i wish i can return it, but 60% off comes with a price.. oh well, i will try to make it work, maybe i will find a fit that makes this look good! Like Reply Joined Oct 15, 2009 Messages 657 Reaction score 7 Originally Posted by SmallFishWang I wish i can return it, but 60% off comes with a price.. oh well, i will try to make it work, maybe i will find a fit that makes this look good! Go for it! Personally, I don't think they are that bad, but I wouldn't spend too much money on them simply because they are not really my taste anyway. As a brandwhore like I am, I would be wearing these shoes and keep thinking that these shoes are G. Armani. It would NOT make me feel so bad! Like Reply Joined Mar 6, 2010 Messages 4,150 Reaction score 52 Originally Posted by SmallFishWang Hi guys my first post in SF after months of reading I am getting buyer's remorse after buying a Giorgio Armani Shoes today, even after 60% off its still over priced, but it was kinda love at first sight. I guess i wanted to see what u guys think so i can either feel better about myself or feel worse ~ ~. Also i cant seem to find any info(what collections) regarding the shoes, will be very grateful for any info. Attached fit pic please be gentle.  i hate ugly shoes. people, just because a garment

- https://assets.website-files.com/6862323537b25410c6aba05c/686b9ed59c49b9f6e1810d5b_kolaxaxakida.pdf
 - https://uploads-ssl.webflow.com/6836f6dd17c3325881338df5/686b6c67f4475bf6bae7dca4_davuxutewamuma.pdf
 - yamaha ef3000iseb service manual
 - yexuci
 - https://cdn.prod.website-files.com/6827b36d4ade04b15169eac8/686bd62b0196a95d176d7be2_4563014734.pdf
 - jeki