Click Here

Momoland's Nancy is being victimized by illegal photo and video distribution, and doctored images. Recently, it was reported that illicit photos and videos of Nancy were circulating online, starting from a secret filming incident at the '2019 Asia Artist Awards' in Vietnam where she served as an MC. MLD Entertainment has issued an official statement, stating they will take strong legal action against the individual responsible for the violation. The agency expresses concern for Nancy's well-being, stating that she is greatly shocked by this incident and that everyone should stop making malicious postings and spreading her photos. They also mentioned that Nancy is crying due to the situation. Additionally, the '2019 AAA' organizing committee has apologized for their involvement in the incident, stating they will cooperate with Vietnamese and Korean authorities to punish those responsible and prevent further damage. When only 2,300 people showed up for the event, Momoland had to postpone their debut, which was a huge disappointment not just for their fans but also for their family and friends who came to witness this momentous occasion. The girls had worked extremely hard to make it happen, having been tasked with raising money to fund the production costs of their album through crowdfunding. Fortunately, enthusiastic fans from all over donated to help them reach their goal of seven million won, surpassing it by raising a total of 10 million. They eventually held their debut showcase on November 9th, 2016, and officially debuted with the release of their EP "Welcome To Momoland" the following day. The group's name symbolizes the members' intention to give hope and provide comfort and fun times to their fans. As their official fandom is called "Merry-Go-Round", they went on to become the ambassadors for an international relief NGO, Plan Korea. Momoland's Rise to Fame Momoland is a South Korean girl group that has gained immense popularity through their music and performances. To access their content, fans can use the Kihno app, which allows them to stream music, view photos, and watch videos on their mobile devices. The group released their second EP, "Freeze," in August 2017, featuring six tracks including "I Like It" and "What Planet Are You From." Their third EP, "Great!", was released in January 2018 and reached No.3 on the Gaon Album Chart. The lead single, "Bboom BBoom," became a huge hit, earning them their first music show win and numerous awards. However, Momoland faced controversy over plagiarism allegations, with a Russian girl group, Serebro, accusing them of copying their song "Mi Mi Mi." Shinsadong Tiger, the composer of "Bboom BBoom," explained that the similarity was due to genre and guitar riff similarities. Despite this, Momoland released a cover of "Mi Mi Mi" before the allegations surfaced. Additionally, there were concerns about bulk buying or "sajaegi" to manipulate sales of their album "Great!". The Ministry of Culture, Sports, and Tourism investigated and found no evidence of wrongdoing, but did confirm that a large purchase was made by a distribution company for business purposes. Momoland's Japanese Debut and Comeback, Delays and Departures Momoland debuted with single "Bboom Bboom" on June 13th, 2018 peaking No.4 on Oricon chart. Their fifth EP "Show Me" was released March 20th, 2019, while the Japanese studio album "Chiri Chiri" came out September 4th, 2019. In 2020 Momoland signed a co-management deal with ABS-CBN and performed in several shows before network's broadcast franchise application got rejected on July 10th. The group released their latest album "Thumbs Up" December 30th, featuring Korean and English versions of the title track. Member Daisy left company May 2020 while Jane led the remaining five members releasing a special EP titled "Starry Night" June 11th. Jane is a member of Momoland with a unique talent for mimicking the sound of a rice cooker and a penchant for glittery eyes as her charm. Her hobbies include online shopping, biking, photography, reading webtoons, and writing in her journal. She enjoys eating jukkumi and sushi but dislikes sesame oil and tomatoes. Jane's ideal type has sparked curiosity among fans, with some speculating about which idols she might have been attracted to before joining Momoland. Her thoughts on the group's past members leaving were that she would support them and wish them well, as everyone chooses their path in life. Inspired by 2NE1's Park Bom, Jane aims to become an idol herself and is grateful for Bom's influence. In interviews, Jane has mentioned treating her mom to a special meal after starting her career, but the financial details of her work are not publicly disclosed. As for her personal appearance, Jane stands at 5ft 6ins with vital statistics of 34-26-37 and wears size 6 shoes. Her net worth is estimated at $600,000 as of September 2020. Nancy Jowel McDonie, better known by her stage name Nancy or Lee Geu-roo, is a South Korean-American singer, actress, and social media personality. Nancy was the main vocalist of the girl group Momoland, which debuted in November 2016 with the EP "Welcome to Momoland". The group gained international fame after releasing their single "Bboom Bboom" and achieved numerous milestones, including becoming the first girl group to earn a Platinum certification by Gaon Music Chart. The group released several successful albums, including "Chiri Chiri", "Great!", and "Freeze!". Nancy has also appeared in various films and television shows, and has collaborated with other artists on music projects. She has also been involved in brand endorsements and event appearances, which have contributed to her net worth of around $500,000-$700,000. Born on April 13, 2000, in Daegu, South Korea, but raised in Ohio, USA, Nancy is a multiracial American who identifies as Christian. She has over 2 million followers on Instagram and is active on Twitter and Facebook. Nancy's personal life is private, but she has stated that she is unmarried and does not have any children or pets. She is known for her full lips, cute smile, and mesmerizing eyes, which have made her a popular figure in the entertainment industry. Nancy from Momoland, lead singer and member of the South Korean girl group, is a High School Graduate from Hanlim Multi Arts High School. She was born on April 13, 2000, to American father Richard Jowel McDonie and Korean-born mother Lee Myeong-Ju in Daegu, South Korea. Her age as of 2019 was 19 years old, with an Aries zodiac sign. Nancy's ethnic background is multiracial due to her parents' mixed ancestry. She grew up in Ohio with her older sister Brenda and later moved back to South Korea for secondary education. Nancy's interests include singing, dancing, traveling, and Chinese cuisine. Her favorite celebrities are Tom Holland and Emma Watson. She also enjoys dark blue colors and has a dream holiday destination in Switzerland. As of 2019, Nancy's net worth is estimated at around $500K-$700K USD from her income sources such as releasing songs, collaborations, tours, brand endorsements, and event appearances. Her height is approximately 5 feet 3 inches (1.63 meters) tall, with a slender figure and high metabolism that helps maintain her weight of about 106 lbs (48 kg). Nancy graduated from Hanlim Multi Arts High School and has been part of Momoland since its formation in 2016. The group gained an opportunity to be ambassadors for the NGO Plan Korea in 2016 and won several programs such as Show Champion and The Show. Nancy McDonie, a 20-year-old Korean-American singer, was targeted by a hidden camera attack known as molka in November 2019. The photos, which showed her undressing during the Asia Artist Awards in Vietnam, were illegally taken and circulated online. MLD Entertainment has condemned the act and is taking legal action against the person responsible.