Because of this, season 2 is the first season where the first episode aired internationally was not the first in production order. While it's unknown what's the exact budget for this season, the total budget for both the second and third seasons was €15,100,000 ($16,873,797 at the time).[118] According to Astruc, while episodes would still be self-contained, the season would feature powerful story arcs.[119] Also, according to Astruc, this season would contain only episodes that advance some aspect of the story, with no filler episodes anymore.[120] Feri González commented that Astruc's purpose for the second season was to discover more things about Hawk Moth, including his identity, his limitations, his determination to seize the Miraculouses, and his actions by himself and with others.[121] Three specials occur this season:[122] "Santa Claws", "Queen's Battle" which consists of "Style Queen", "Queen Wasp", and "Malediktator", and "Heroes' Day" which consists of "Catalyst" and "Mayura". Originally, "Heroes' Day" was announced to be part of season 3, but as of June 26, 2018, it was confirmed to be part of season 2.[123][124] Despite being part of the the special, "Malediktator" doesn't include the sub-title "Queen's Battle" like "Style Queen" and "Queen Wasp", and canonically happens after "Reverser" and "Anansi". The international release of the episode, however, happened right after "Queen Wasp". Seasons 2 and 3 are tied with most as of yet Lucky Charms summoned by Ladybug in a season with 32. They're also tied for the most episodes that summoned a Lucky Charm twice with a total of 7. An episode planned for this season, "Gagotor" was confirmed to be cancelled in 2019, making it the first time ever, that an episode was shelved. This season, along with season 3, hold the most new characters introduced: All the kwamis in the Miracle Box, aside from Tikki, Plagg, Nooroo and Wayzz. André, an ice cream man. Hessenpy, a fire captain August, a baby. Kagami Tsurugi, a fencer and exchange student from Japan. Gina Bianchi, Marinette's paternal grandmother. Clara Nightingale, a pop singer. Wayhem, a big fan of Adrien. Jean Tretiens, a janitor Markov, a robot Max created, who is also his best friend. Ella and Etta Césaire, Alya's younger twin sisters, who were only mentioned in "Stormy Weather". Albert, the program assistant for Mr. Damoclès's computer. Clara Contard, a journalist Ondine, a swimmer and Kim's love interest. Luka Couffaine, Juleka's twin brother. Anarka Couffaine, Juleka and Luka's mother. Philippe, a skater. Audrey Bourgeois, Chloé's mother. Jean-Pierre Monlataing, an art teacher. Marc Anciel, a writer. Nora Césaire, Alya's older sister. Mr. Banana, a man dressed as a banana A blue-haired boy. Mrs. Rossi, Lila's mother. Santa Claus, a man dressed up as Santa for Christmas. From the international episode releases of season 2 it took the longest time to premiere and finish with a time frame of a year and 2 weeks (excluding "Santa Claws") however (including "Santa Claws" and constant schedule changes) the time frame would've been about almost 2 years. Ironically, the time span between how long viewers had watched this season (starting with "The Collector") and how long it took to premier is roughly the same amount of time almost a year. 7 episodes so far feature, either physically or in flashbacks, and not in theme song intros, Miraculous holders that aren't Ladybug, Cat Noir, or Hawk Moth. Seven of the episodes feature a miraculous holder other than Ladybug, Cat Noir, and Hawk Moth, transformed on-screen (not counting power-ups). Interestingly, all of them, with the exception of "Sapotis", are in the second half of the season, following most episode orders, including Netflix's, Disney's, and the production order. This season of Miraculous has a few character arcs that start or progress throughout the entirety of the season. These include: Marinette's Arcs: After meeting Master Fu in "The Collector", she continues to learn new information about the Miraculouses in episodes such as "Robostus", "Syren", and "Sandboy", and recruits new allies, in "Sapotis", "Anansi", and "Malediktator". Starting from "Glaciator", she continues to try to confess her feelings to Adrien, and their friendship strengthens ("Despair Bear", "Troublemaker", "Gigantitan", "Riposte", "Befana", "Frightningale", "Gorizilla", "Frozer", "Queen's Battle", "Reverser", "Anansi", "Heroes' Day"). Whilst also realizing she might have feelings for Luka Couffaine ("Captain Hardrock", "Frozer"). Adrien's Arc: After he's rejected by Ladybug in "Glaciator", Adrien as Cat Noir continues to flirt with her. In "Syren", he feels left out because he realizes Ladybug is hiding things from him, but after he meets Master Fu, he gains a bit more of an understanding. Everything culminates in "Frozer". Where after being rejected so many times by Ladybug, Adrien decides to invite Kagami on a date, and to try to move on, but in the end he decides he can't just change his feelings so easily and stays on his current target (Ladybug). Gabriel's Arc: Gabriel's (Hawk Moth's) arc begins with his identity being revealed in "The Collector", and continues with him learning new information about the Miraculouses and Guardian in Paris, seen in "Sapotis", "Syren", and "Sandboy", as well as him getting ready for his Heroes' Day plan, hinted in episodes such as "Sapotis", "Anansi", and "Sandboy". His motivations for obtaining the Miraculous are also given more clarity in episodes such as "Robustus", "Style Queen" and "Queen Wasp". Chloé's Arc: Chloé shows more kindness and vulnerability in season 2 than any other season, this is most evident in "Despair Bear", "Zombizou", "Queen Wasp" and "Malediktator". With this supposed new outlook allowing her to ultimately use the Bee Miraculous when given to her. Despite her moments of good, Chloé will revert to her original personality shortly after and throughout each episode of the season. This release included audio tracks in English, French, Latin American Spanish, Castilian Spanish, Japanese, Brazilian Portuguese, European Portuguese, and Italian. Chloé causes 4 akumatizations this season. Nine characters from the previous season are akumatized for the first time, those characters being: During the events of "Catalyst" and "Mayura", fifteen of the twenty-six akumatized villains from the previous season are re-akumatized, those characters being: Lila in Volpina, Ivan in Stoneheart, Sabrina in Vanisher, Mylène in Horrificator, Alix in Timebreaker, Kim in Dark Cupid, Max in Gamer, Rose in Princess Fragrance, Jagged in Guitar Villain, Fred in The Mime, Otis in Animan, Jalil in Pharaoh, Roger in Rogercop, Aurore in Stormy Weather and Armand in Darkblade. Also, twelve characters that have been already akumatized in this season are re-akumatized: Placide I.T. in Gorizilla, Nadja in Prime Queen, Clara in Frightningale, August in Gigantitan, the ice cream vendor André in Glaciator, Kagami in Riposte, Chloé in Queen Wasp, André in Malediktator, Audrey in Style Queen, the butler Jean in Despair Bear, Ondine in Syren and Philippe in Frozer. The opening sequence of season 3 is strictly the same as season 2. According to Thomas Astruc, the reason for that, is that the basics of both seasons are the same.[125] Like with season 3, Netflix split this season into two parts. Due to broadcasting issues, many episodes of the season had their international premieres out of order: "Befana" was aired before "Glaciator" and "Gigantitan". "Gigantitan" was aired before "Glaciator". "The Dark Owl" was aired before "Troublemaker" and "Frightningale". "Captain Hardrock" was aired before "Frightningale". "Reverser" was aired before "Style Queen" and "Queen Wasp". "Anansi" was aired before "Frozer". "Sandboy" was aired before "Malediktator". This is the first season to have: This is the last season to have Marieve Herington as the voice actor for Sabrina. Cassandra Lee Morris takes over the role starting with "Zombizou". Because of this, season 2 is the first season where the first episode aired internationally was not the first in production order. While it's unknown what's the exact budget for this season, the total budget for both the second and third seasons was €15,100,000 ($16,873,797 at the time).[118] According to Astruc, while episodes would still be self-contained, the season would feature powerful story arcs.[119] Also, according to Astruc, this season would contain only episodes that advance some aspect of the story, with no filler episodes anymore.[120] Feri González commented that Astruc's purpose for the second season was to discover more things about Hawk Moth, including his identity, his limitations, his determination to seize the Miraculouses, and his actions by himself and with others.[121] Three specials occur this season:[122] "Santa Claws", "Queen's Battle" which consists of "Style Queen", "Queen Wasp", and "Malediktator", and "Heroes' Day" which consists of "Catalyst" and "Mayura". Originally, "Heroes' Day" was announced to be part of season 3, but as of June 26, 2018, it was confirmed to be part of season 2.[123][124] Despite being part of the the special, "Malediktator" doesn't include the sub-title "Queen's Battle" like "Style Queen" and "Queen Wasp", and canonically happens after "Reverser" and "Anansi". The international release of the episode, however, happened right after "Queen Wasp". Seasons 2 and 3 are tied with most as of yet Lucky Charms summoned by Ladybug in a season with 32. They're also tied for the most episodes that summoned a Lucky Charm twice with a total of 7. An episode planned for this season, "Gagotor" was confirmed to be cancelled in 2019, making it the first time ever, that an episode was shelved. This season, along with season 3, hold the most new characters introduced: All the kwamis in the Miracle Box, aside from Tikki, Plagg, Nooroo and Wayzz. André, an ice cream man. Hessenpy, a fire captain August, a baby. Kagami Tsurugi, a fencer and exchange student from Japan. Gina Bianchi, Marinette's paternal grandmother. Clara Nightingale, a pop singer. Wayhem, a big fan of Adrien. Jean Tretiens, a janitor Markov, a robot Max created, who is also his best friend. Ella and Etta Césaire, Alya's younger twin sisters, who were only mentioned in "Stormy Weather". Albert, the program assistant for Mr. Damoclès's computer. Clara Contard, a journalist Ondine, a swimmer and Kim's love interest. Luka Couffaine, Juleka's twin brother. Anarka Couffaine, Juleka and Luka's mother. Philippe, a skater. Audrey Bourgeois, Chloé's mother. Jean-Pierre Monlataing, an art teacher. Marc Anciel, a writer. Nora Césaire, Alya's older sister. Mr. Banana, a man dressed as a banana A blue-haired boy. Mrs. Rossi, Lila's mother. Santa Claus, a man dressed up as Santa for Christmas. From the international episode releases of season 2 it took the longest time to premiere and finish with a time frame of a year and 2 weeks (excluding "Santa Claws") however (including "Santa Claws" and constant schedule changes) the time frame would've been about almost 2 years. Ironically, the time span between how long viewers had watched this season (starting with "The Collector") and how long it took to premier is roughly the same amount of time almost a year. 7 episodes so far feature, either physically or in flashbacks, and not in theme song intros, Miraculous holders that aren't Ladybug, Cat Noir, or Hawk Moth. Seven of the episodes feature a miraculous holder other than Ladybug, Cat Noir, and Hawk Moth, transformed on-screen (not counting power-ups). Interestingly, all of them, with the exception of "Sapotis", are in the second half of the season, following most episode orders, including Netflix's, Disney's, and the production order. This season of Miraculous has a few character arcs that start or progress throughout the entirety of the season. These include: Marinette's Arcs: After meeting Master Fu in "The Collector", she continues to learn new information about the Miraculouses in episodes such as "Robostus", "Syren", and "Sandboy", and recruits new allies, in "Sapotis", "Anansi", and "Malediktator". Starting from "Glaciator", she continues to try to confess her feelings to Adrien, and their friendship strengthens ("Despair Bear", "Troublemaker", "Gigantitan", "Riposte", "Befana", "Frightningale", "Gorizilla", "Frozer", "Queen's Battle", "Reverser", "Anansi", "Heroes' Day"). Whilst also realizing she might have feelings for Luka Couffaine ("Captain Hardrock", "Frozer"). Adrien's Arc: After he's rejected by Ladybug in "Glaciator", Adrien as Cat Noir continues to flirt with her. In "Syren", he feels left out because he realizes Ladybug is hiding things from him, but after he meets Master Fu, he gains a bit more of an understanding. Everything culminates in "Frozer". Where after being rejected so many times by Ladybug, Adrien decides to invite Kagami on a date, and to try to move on, but in the end he decides he can't just change his feelings so easily and stays on his current target (Ladybug). Gabriel's Arc: Gabriel's (Hawk Moth's) arc begins with his identity being revealed in "The Collector", and continues with him learning new information about the Miraculouses and Guardian in Paris, seen in "Sapotis", "Syren", and "Sandboy", as well as him getting ready for his Heroes' Day plan, hinted in episodes such as "Sapotis", "Anansi", and "Sandboy". His motivations for obtaining the Miraculous are also given more clarity in episodes such as "Robustus", "Style Queen" and "Queen Wasp". Chloé's Arc: Chloé shows more kindness and vulnerability in season 2 than any other season, this is most evident in "Despair Bear", "Zombizou", "Queen Wasp" and "Malediktator". With this supposed new outlook allowing her to ultimately use the Bee Miraculous when given to her. Despite her moments of good, Chloé will revert to her original personality shortly after and throughout each episode of the season. This release included audio tracks in English, French, Latin American Spanish, Castilian Spanish, Japanese, Brazilian Portuguese, European Portuguese, and Italian. Chloé causes 4 akumatizations this season. Nine characters from the previous season are akumatized for the first time, those characters being: During the events of "Catalyst" and "Mayura", fifteen of the twenty-six akumatized villains from the previous season are re-akumatized, those characters being: Lila in Volpina, Ivan in Stoneheart, Sabrina in Vanisher, Mylène in Horrificator, Alix in Timebreaker, Kim in Dark Cupid, Max in Gamer, Rose in Princess Fragrance, Jagged in Guitar Villain, Fred in The Mime, Otis in Animan, Jalil in Pharaoh, Roger in Rogercop, Aurore in Stormy Weather and Armand in Darkblade. Also, twelve characters that have been already akumatized in this season are re-akumatized: Placide I.T. in Gorizilla, Nadja in Prime Queen, Clara in Frightningale, August in Gigantitan, the ice cream vendor André in Glaciator, Kagami in Riposte, Chloé in Queen Wasp, André in Malediktator, Audrey in Style Queen, the butler Jean in Despair Bear, Ondine in Syren and Philippe in Frozer. The opening sequence of season 3 is strictly the same as season 2. According to Thomas Astruc, the reason for that, is that the basics of both seasons are the same.[125] Like with season 3, Netflix split this season into two parts. Due to broadcasting issues, many episodes of the season had their international premieres out of order: "Befana" was aired before "Glaciator" and "Gigantitan". "Gigantitan" was aired before "Glaciator". "The Dark Owl" was aired before "Troublemaker" and "Frightningale". "Captain Hardrock" was aired before "Frightningale". "Reverser" was aired before "Style Queen" and "Queen Wasp". "Anansi" was aired before "Frozer". "Sandboy" was aired before "Malediktator". This is the first season to have: This is the last season to have Marieve Herington as the voice actor for Sabrina. Cassandra Lee Morris takes over the role starting with "Zombizou".
